Here are some places to share what you have learned by exhibiting or competing:

- Share in a school show
- Display at a community event or activity along with others from your club or group

Learning Objective

The purpose of the 4-H program is to provide positive opportunities for a young person to develop the essential life skills of mastery, independence, generosity, and belonging through their own areas of interest.

In this project area of interest, youth may learn...

1. different aspects of dairy cattle industries.
2. about all the different breeds of dairy cattle.
3. how to care for, groom, show, and train dairy cattle.
4. proper nutrition, first aid, and health of dairy cattle.
5. how records are used by producers to evaluate breeding stock.
6. how a registered breeder produces sound, genetically superior animals.
7. how producers raise economically efficient dairy cattle.
8. the proper parts of dairy cattle and lingo used in dairy cattle industries.
9. about proper tack and equipment.
10. diseases, anatomy, and behavior of dairy cattle.

Here are some suggestions of things you can make or create to exhibit or share with others:

- create a display or poster demonstrating something learned
- compete in a county, district, or the state show with a dairy cow or heifer
- create a comparison of different breeds and what they offer their industry

Citizenship Opportunities

Giving back to your community is a great way to not only provide service but also to learn more about the world we live in. You could...

1. help your club by doing a community service activity or project.
2. volunteer to help at a community event – help is always needed.
3. cleanup a highway or city park.
4. do a food drive, school-supply drive, or clothing drive to help others in need.
5. make and give something away or participate in an organized service drive or event.

Goals/Recordkeeping/Completion

One of the basic principles of 4-H is to set goals and then work to accomplish them. Being able to share what you learned while working toward goals is valuable. We have a way that we like to use to help you, your parents, your club volunteers, and your 4-H educator to know how things went each year – it's called your 4-H Portfolio (some call them record books).

For each project, you are asked to set goals and share what you learned, tell what you did, show how you are involved, and tell what you liked, disliked, or felt about doing the project. You will be asked to complete these and give them to adults for evaluation and to possibly learn other ways to compete and be recognized.

Leadership Opportunities

Providing leadership to others comes in many different forms. In fact, only a small part of being a leader is actually because of being elected. Here are some ways to be a leader or become a leader. You could...

1. volunteer to head a committee in your club over an activity.
2. volunteer to do something to help your club.
3. volunteer to be in charge of leading a song, ice-breaker, lead the pledge, or cleanup after a meeting.
4. volunteer to teach a workshop, clinic, or demonstration.
5. mentor a younger youth in 4-H with similar or different interests.
6. organize a field trip or fun activity for your club or project group.
7. run for a position in your club as president, secretary, or something else.
