• The Casper College School of Business and Industry has created an outdoor recreation and tourism management AS degree, which is anticipated to launch in fall 2020. Articulation with the University of Wyoming for this degree is also expected.

• The Casper College School of Business and Industry also started offering a bookkeeping AAS degree and certificate this fall in the accounting department.

• Liz Ott, Casper College accounting instructor in the Casper College School of Business and Industry, was appointed to the Wyoming Board of Public Accountants by then-Governor Matt Mead in July 2018 to serve a four-year term.

• Andrew Young, Ph.D., physics instructor in the Casper College School of Science, was selected as STEAM Educator of the Year for 2018-19.

• Cara Rodriguez, English instructor in the Casper College School of Fine Arts and Humanities, was awarded the 2018 Creative Writing Fellowship in Poetry from the Wyoming Arts Council.

• Chad Hanson, sociology instructor in the Casper College School of Social and Behavioral Science, was one of seven finalists for the Association for the Study of Literature and Environment Book Awards for 2017.

• Kent Sundell, Ph.D., geology instructor in the Casper College School of Science, had an article he co-authored on a crater impact site in Wyoming published in Scientific Reports on September 2018.

• The Casper College Respiratory Therapy program, for the fourth year in a row, was chosen by the Commission on Accreditation for Respiratory Care to receive the Distinguished RRT – Registered Respiratory Therapist – Credentialing Success Award for 2018.

• The Casper College Early Childhood Education program was recently named a top 50 online associate degree option in the United States, according to thebestschools.org. Casper College placed 18th nationally.

• Tara Goltermann, a teacher with the Early Childhood Learning Center at Casper College, was named the Employee of the Year for 2018-2019 by the Wyoming Association of Community College Trustees.

• Art Washut, criminal justice instructor in the Casper College School of Social and Behavioral Science, was named the Faculty Member of the Year for 2018-2019 by the Wyoming Association of Community College Trustees.