Author: American Highland Cattle Association
Title: Records, 1948-2009
Size: 4.05 cubic ft. (9 boxes)

Summary
The American Highland Cattle Association records contain organizational records and printed materials from the AHCA and a number of American Highland Cattle regional organizations, including sale catalogs, show programs, membership directories, breed registration records, newsletters, and the AHCA publication "The Bagpipe." The collection also contains several scrapbooks and photograph albums.

Biography
The American Scotch Highland Breeders' Association was founded on August 30, 1948. In 1992 the organization changed its name to the American Highland Cattle Association (AHCA). The AHCA is charged with maintaining the breed registry of American Highland cattle, preserving the integrity of the breed, and assisting its member in creating value for their animals. The official publication of the AHCA was "The Fold" until 1975, at which time it was replaced by "The Bagpipe."

Author: American National CattleWomen
Title: Records, 1951-1995
Size: 65.99 cubic ft. (148 boxes)

Summary
The collection documents the activities of the American National Cowbelles and the American National CattleWomen in promoting the beef industry and consumer education from 1951-1995. The collection includes extensive correspondence, articles of incorporation, minutes, membership index and rosters, minutes and reports with state members and chairs, scrapbooks, newsclippings, photographs, and budgets, relating to its annual conventions, committees, and promotional activities, especially the National Beef Cook-Off. The collection also includes the papers of several of the organization's former presidents, including Mary Louise Lynam (d. 1969); 25 artifacts from conventions and Beef Cook-Off contests; and 8 16mm films, 11 vhs and 1 3/4 inch video tapes, 1 phonograph record, 5 reel-to-reel tapes and 3 audiocassette tapes of Board of Director's meetings, National Beef Cook-Off contests and other promotional activities.
Biography
A group of fifteen women met at the Four Bar Ranch near Douglas, Arizona, in October 1939 to form the Cow Belles, an organization to help promote the beef industry and friendship among cattle people. By 1951 ten state-wide organizations had been formed, leading to the development of a national organization. At the annual American National Cattlemen's Association convention in San Francisco in January 1951, Mary Louise Lynam was elected organizing chair and during the ANCA's 1952 convention in Fort Worth, Texas, the American National Cowbelles were incorporated on January 7, 1952. The organization changed its name to the American National CattleWomen in 1986 to provide national leadership and coordinate promotion, education and legislative activities for women in the cattle industry. The ANCW has initiated several beef promotion projects, including cookbooks, "Beef for Father's Day," and a National Beef Cook-Off, which began in 1974.

Author: American Sheep Industry Association
Size: 191.37 cubic ft. (199 boxes and 1 item). Physical Medifilms 16 mm.

Summary
The American Sheep Industry Association Records document the history and activities of the organization and its two predecessors, American Sheep Producers Council and National Wool Growers Association, between 1865 and 1996. The records concern sheep and wool production and marketing. The records also cover the economic, regulatory, political, and environmental issues that were of concern to sheep and wool producers and that were addressed by the American Sheep Industry Association and its predecessors. Materials include administrative history, correspondence, financial records, meeting minutes and associated information, industry research and marketing studies, legal files, advertisements and other promotional material, and resources for sheep producers. The majority of the materials are from the American Sheep Producers Council. Inventory for collection http://rmoa.unm.edu/docviewer.php?docId=wyu-ah09711.xml

Biography
The American Sheep Industry Association (ASI) was a national organization that represented and defended the interests of the sheep and wool industries. It was established in 1989 by a merger between the American Sheep Producers Council (founded 1955) and the National Wool Growers Association (founded 1865). ASI was a federation of 45 state sheep associations. Its main objectives were to promote wool and lamb, provide resources for sheep producers, and represent the sheep industry in federal legislation. The American Wool Council and the American Lamb Council were divisions of ASI.

Warren's daughter Helen and son-in-law General John J. Pershing; and one series of papers of W.W. Gleason, manager of the Warren Livestock Company.

Biography
Francis E. Warren, a Massachusetts native, emigrated to Wyoming in 1868. He began work in the mercantile business, soon becoming a partner and then owner of several businesses and ranching properties. While increasing his business holdings, Warren became involved in politics and government. He was a governor of the Wyoming Territory and the first governor of the state of Wyoming. He stepped down as governor after being elected one of Wyoming's first United States senators. Warren was a leader in Wyoming politics and business and in the U.S. Senate until his death in 1929.
Summary
In 1883, Alexander H. Swan founded the Wyoming Hereford Association, the predecessor of the Wyoming Hereford Ranch, to establish a purebred Hereford herd in Wyoming. The ranch was situated in Laramie County, Wyoming, on Crow Creek. The herd was taken over by Henry Altman and Dan McIlvain of Cheyenne, who bought the then 30,000 acre Crow Creek ranch and the herd in 1980 after Swan went bankrupt. They owned and operated it for twenty-seven years under the name Wyoming Hereford Association. In 1916, the ranch was sold to the Hereford Association of Wyoming, with James D. Husted as the head of the organization and his nephew Raymond Husted as ranch manager. The philanthropist Henry P Crowell had a financial interest in the ranch. The Husteds had difficulty meeting the running costs and sold the ranch to Crowell in 1921. In August of that year, he renamed it the Wyoming Hereford Ranch. Crowell brought in Robert Wells Lazear, who was responsible for developing the high quality herd over thirty-seven years as manager. The Wyoming Hereford Foundation was set up in 1938 to ensure the ranch's continuation after Crowell's death, which occurred in 1944. The ranch was sold to Thomas E. Leavey and Dorothy E. Leavey in 1957 after the death of Robert W. Lazear. George W. Lazear, son of Robert Lazear, continued as ranch manager. The ranch was put up for sale again in 1967 and was purchased by Nielson Enterprises, Inc. of Cody, Wyoming. When the ranch went up for sale in 1976, Sloan and Anna Marie Hales bought the biggest portion of the herd. They leased the ranch on which they maintained the cattle until it was sold in 1978 in fourteen parcels. The Hales bought 11,300 acres in this sale with the hope of continuing the registered purebred Hereford herd.

Biography
The Wyoming Hereford Ranch records primarily cover the period from 1921 to the late 1960s, during which the Lazear Family managed the day to day operations of the ranch. There is very limited information on the early years of the ranch. Although the focus of the records is the business concerns of the ranch, some personal information about ranch employee, including personnel and training files. Also included is personal correspondence, some of which details the Lazears' mission work, and personal as well as business photographs. The collection also contains maps and blueprints of the Wyoming Hereford Ranch area, and some artifacts that detail both the personal and the business life of the ranch; cattle records including breeding, certificates of pedigree, feeding, veterinary reports, sales and shipping; financial and legal records; yearbooks and other material documenting the operations of the ranch.

Summary
WSGA materials include correspondence (1870-1944); administrative records including minutes, legal documents, correspondence, membership records, committee records, and annual convention records (1874-1985); financial records (1874-1982); brand books, roundup records and inspection and shipping records (1868-1978); Wyoming's Cow-Belles records and correspondence (1940-1972); Junior Wyoming Stock Growers Association records (1954-1973); WSGA publications including the periodical "Cow Country"; photographs (1857-1981); an oil painting commemorating the founding of the WSGA; and artifacts. Papers of two WSGA executive secretaries, Thomas Sturgis (1881-1898) and Russell Thorp (1860-1968), contain correspondence, photographs, subject files, scrapbooks, speeches and miscellaneous other materials. Collection also includes Cheyenne Club correspondence, membership records, financial records and other materials (1880-1947); Johnson County War materials, including correspondence, articles, and journals (1891-1939); American National Cattlemen's Association materials, chiefly printed (1905-1974); and subject files related to the western livestock industry and Wyoming and western history; and periodicals related to the livestock industry.

Biography
The Stock Association of Laramie County was organized in Cheyenne, Wyoming Territory, in 1872 to combat cattle rustlers operating in the area. By 1879, it had been renamed the Wyoming Stock Growers Association and was involved in a broad range of activities, including managing roundups, conducting brand inspections, and dealing with health and sanitary concerns, freight rates, and fencing and other public domain issues. The Association was instrumental in the development of Wyoming livestock and rangeland laws beginning in the 1880s and was closely involved in the Johnson County War of 1892. A women's auxiliary, Wyoming's Cow-Belles, was organized in 1940 and a youth group, the Junior Wyoming Stock Growers Association, was founded in 1954.

Author: Birleffi & Birleffi
Title: Birleffi & Birleffi films, 1980-1983
Size: 6 cubic ft. (6 boxes and 8 oversized film cans)

Biography
Bobbie and Lynn Birleffi were sisters and owners of Birleffi & Birleffi Inc., a film production company in Cheyenne, Wyoming, which they operated during the 1980s. Bobbie Birleffi was a well known film director and television producer and Lynn Birleffi was a prominent Wyoming businesswoman and politician. Birleffi & Birleffi produced Bobbie's independent television film "Is Anyone Home on the Range" (1983), which concerned the culture clash between Wyoming residents and energy companies. The sisters' company also produced television commercials.

Summary
Collection consists of 16 mm films produced by Birleffi & Birleffi Inc. It contains the workprints of Bobbie Birleffi's "Is Anyone Home on the Range". It also contains films of television commercials produced by the company. A videotape of Lynn Birleffi's 1988 Cheyenne mayoral campaign commercials is preserved at the University of Oklahoma's Political Commercial Archive.

Author: Boyd, William, 1895-1972
Title: Papers, 1930-1977
Size: 112 cubic ft. (192 boxes)

Biography
Boyd was an actor made famous through his portrayal of the cowboy character Hopalong Cassidy on film, radio and television. Hopalong first appeared in films in 1934, on television in 1949, and on radio and in comics in 1950. The character became enormously popular and Boyd acquired all rights to the Hopalong character in 1948. He consolidated all Hopalong enterprises and began a highly profitable business through promotion of the character. Boyd donated some of his profits to childrens hospitals and homes. Boyd married actress Grace Bradley in 1937. He retired in 1953.

Biography
Carroll Carroll (1902-1991) was a leading comedy/variety writer in the golden age of radio. He was most noted for creating Bing Crosby's easy-going on-air persona for the "Kraft Music Hall" (1936-1946). In the 1920s his work ranged from advertising to humor magazines and rhyming movie reviews for New York newspapers. From 1932-1946 he was the head radio writer for J. Walter Thompson Company's advertising accounts on the agency's top ten shows. In 1946 Carroll joined the Ward Wheelock Company, where he created advertising on Bob Crosby's "Club 15." He worked in television for CBS and 20th Century Fox before returning to JWT. Carroll ghost wrote many "autobiographies," including books for Bob Hope, Liberace, Henny Youngman, Ed McMahon, and Mike Douglas. Throughout his career he wrote many song lyrics and ad jingles, and in retirement he pioneered an advertising critique column for the publication "Variety."

Author: Morse Bros. Machinery & Supply Co. (Denver, Colo.)
Title: Records, 1898-1953
Size: 3.75 cubic ft. (4 boxes)

Summary
The collection contains business files of these pioneering industries of the Encampment area. Includes correspondence, financial and legal records and related material, 1902-1925. Also maps, plats and blue prints, 1898-1909, pamphlets and other printed materials and some photographs.

Biography

The town of Encampment, Wyoming, was founded in 1898 to service the Ferris-Haggerty Mine and other copper mines in the area. North American Copper Co. bought the Ferris-Haggerty Mine, and built a smelter with a 16-mile aerial tramway connecting it directly to the mine. In 1905 Penn-Wyoming Copper Co. bought out North American. Penn-Wyoming operated eleven subsidiary companies within the Encampment area: Battle Lake Tunnel Site Mining Co. (aka Doane Rambler Copper Mine); Carbondale Coal Co.; Emerson Light Co.; Encampment Land & Town Site Co.; Encampment Pipeline Ditch Co.; Encampment Smelting Co.; Encampment Tramway Co.; Encampment Water Works Co.; Haggerty Copper Mining Co.; North American Mercantile Co.; and the Encampment Railway Co. Two fires occurred at the smelter in March and May of 1906, which put a considerable financial strain on the company. In 1909 Penn-Wyoming's holdings were acquired by United Smelters, Railway and Copper Co. A year later United Smelters went into receivership and bankruptcy. The companies were purchased by the Bondholders Protective Committee and then sold to Morse Bros. Machinery & Supply Co. of Denver in 1919. Morse Bros. sold off most of the equipment of the smelter and mines. The Saratoga & Encampment Railway was operated under an agreement by the Union Pacific Company from 1921-1924. In 1926 the line was abandoned.

Author: Union Oil Company of California. Union Energy Mining Division Casper (Wyo.) Office
Size: 122 cubic ft (127 boxes)

Summary
This collection contains coal exploration records from the Union Oil Company of California's Union Energy Mining Division office in Casper, Wyoming. Included are logs, correspondence, and reports pertaining to coal exploration, evaluation, and reserves. Exploration and evaluations in Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Alaska, and North Dakota predominate; however, coal mining records include countries such as Australia and the Philippines, among others. Topographical maps from around the world, financial and administrative records, claims, reports, regulations, coal field evaluations, and title papers for properties are included. There is also a small amount of material on uranium mining. Some of these records (such as maps and memorandums) were created by other offices within the Union Oil Company of California but pertain to the business and operations of the Casper office.

Biography
The Union Oil Company of California (later named Unocal) was founded in 1890. The Minerals Exploration Company was a wholly owned subsidiary of the Union Oil Company of California. In 1979, all of the company's energy mining operations (including the Minerals Exploration Company) were consolidated into the Union Energy Mining Division. The central regional office of this division was based in Casper, Wyoming. The division was responsible for the exploration and acquisition of coal and uranium. Offices in Casper closed in the mid-1990s.

Author: United Mine Workers of America. District 22
Size: 5.81 cubic ft. (14 boxes) + artifacts + audiotape + phono disc.

Summary
Collection contains materials relating to the operation of District 22 of the UMWA and its various local unions in and around Rock Springs, Wyoming. The collection includes accident reports, correspondence, annual convention materials, minutes, reports, agreements with the Union Pacific Coal Company and the Colony Coal Company, materials relating to the Rock Springs Medical Group, which provided care for injured miners, and artifacts. The collection also includes the files of the district's compensation adjustor, Dan Pallie, who was injured in a mining accident in 1927, and a 78 rpm phonograph record (an audio cassette copy is also available) of a 1951 speech by Pallie at the Rock Springs Labor Temple. The collection also includes records relating to the operation of its locals in Dines (Local No. 4376), Rock Springs (Locals No. 2174, 2282, and 2516), Reliance (Local No. 905), Superior (Local No. 2323), and Winton (Local No. 3830). Included are minutes, reports, correspondence, and financial records of these local coal mining unions. The records of several affiliated labor unions are also contained in the collection, including the Rock Springs Central Labor Union, the Rock Springs Cooperative Society, the Rock Springs Labor Temple Association, the Sweetwater County Federal Trades and Labor Council and materials for construction and retail unions in Rock Springs.

Biography
The United Mine Workers of America (UMWA), a labor union representing coal miners and other workers, was founded in Columbus, Ohio, in 1890. The UWMA began recruiting members in Wyoming in the early 1910s when District 22 of the organization was formed out of 54 local unions in Wyoming and Utah. The UMWA was closely affiliated with other labor groups in Rock Springs, Sweetwater County, Wyoming. The Rock Springs Central Labor Union served as an umbrella organization for these groups, and was preceded by the Sweetwater County Federated Trades and Labor Council (SCFTLC) which was formed around 1915. The SCFTLC helped to establish the Rock Springs Cooperative Society to conduct a cooperatively owned and managed general mercantile business in Rock Springs.

Title: Atlantic City Project Records, 1877-1985 (bulk 1952-1984)
Size: 90.2 cubic ft. (184 boxes)

Summary
Records contain primarily the files of the Engineering Department's three sub-groups: Project Engineering, responsible for all policy and procedure requirements for long and short range facility planning, budgeting, and property; Facilities Engineering, responsible for designing and revising facilities, preparing equipment and facilities specifications, and construction progress and safety inspections; and Mining Engineering, whose principle objective was to acquire pertinent data on the ore deposit and develop the Mining Plan.

http://rmoa.unm.edu/docviewer.php?docId=wyu-ah10384.xml

Biography
On June 30, 1960, U.S. Steel Corporation's Columbia-Geneva Steel Division broke ground for the construction of facilities to mine, concentrate, and agglomerate iron ores of the Atlantic City, Wyoming area, which became known as the Atlantic City Project. The project, named for a nearby ghost mining town, was located in Fremont County, on the southeast flank of the Wind River Mountains. The installation was the highest open pit iron ore mining operation in the United States. It was the first integrated iron ore beneficiation plant west of the Mississippi producing an agglomerated product. In addition to the open pit mining operations, Atlantic City Ore Operations included an ore crushing and screening facility; a concentrating plant; an agglomerating plant; an extensive water storage and handling system; and storage, loading, and shipping facilities, including a 76-mile industrial spur track. Iron ore agglomerates were shipped to the blast furnaces at Geneva Works in Provo, Utah by the Union Pacific Railroad. Biography Construction was completed in 26 months, with initial startup of plant operations in August 1962. Full production was achieved by March 1963. Operations were suspended indefinitely October 1, 1983, and in April 1984, the plant was permanently shut down.

Author: Dietler, Cortlandt S., 1921-
Title: Papers, 1953-1987
Size: 8.1 cubic ft. (18 boxes)

Summary
The Cortlandt S. Dietler Papers contain correspondence, reports, meeting minutes, and background information documenting Mr. Dietler's career and affiliations in the oil industry. The largest extent of files relates to the Northern Tier Pipeline Company. Other files refer to the Rocky Mountain Oil and Gas Association (RMOGA), which contain information relating to Dietler's membership in and service to this association. Financial backing for a guy line anchor-testing program developed at the University of Wyoming is mentioned. Of particular note is an index to and full set of Position Papers that state the association's support of or opposition to legislation on various topics such as natural gas deregulation, windfall profit tax, and synthetic fuels financial incentives. A third series of papers concerns the National Petroleum Council (NPC). Other files contain various publications about the oil and gas industry in the United States, and some personal files contain various newspaper articles about Cortlandt Dietler or that mention him, and some personal notes and letters from his acquaintances.

Biography
Successful oilman Cortlandt S. Dietler was born September 19, 1921, in Denver, Colorado, to Ralph O., a noted Denver oil consultant, and Christabel Scoville Dietler. As a young man, he attended Cascia Hall Prep School in Tulsa, Oklahoma, and Culver Military Academy in Indiana, from which he graduated in 1940. He was called to serve in the Army Corps of Engineers during World War II. Upon his return, he graduated from the University of Tulsa in 1946. In July 1946, he went to Beirut, Lebanon, to work for the Trans-Arabian Pipeline Company during construction of the Tapline. Dietler returned to the United States in 1948, married, and moved to Casper, Wyoming. In 1950, Dietler moved back to Denver and took a position with Argo Oil as a division exploration manager. He formed the Platte Transport Corporation on the side. He left Argo, and in 1953 teamed with Jack Oleson to form Western Crude Marketers, Inc. Dietler then founded Western Crude Oil, Inc. in 1967. In 1975, he joined a consortium of small independent oil companies that founded the Northern Tier Pipeline Company. He resigned as Western Crude Oil's president and CEO in the fall of 1981 to pursue the Northern Tier Pipeline project full-time. Western Crude went on to become a subsidiary of Getty Oil Company. In the early 1980s, Dietler co-founded Associated Natural Gas Corporation, a natural gas gathering, processing, and marketing company, which he ran and later sold to PanEnergy Corporation in 1994. In 1981, Dietler co-founded TransMontaigne Oil Company in Denver. In 1987, he became a partner in the privately held Caza Drilling Company of Denver. His involvement in more than fifteen oil and gas companies over the course of his career earned him the moniker, "the man with the Midas touch." The Colorado Petroleum Association named him "Pioneer Oil Man of the Year" in 1986, and he was inducted into the Colorado Business Hall of Fame in February 2001.

Author: Dietler, Ralph O., 1890-1973
Title: Papers, 1917-1974
Size: 1.6 cubic ft. (3 boxes).

Summary
Papers document Dietler's career and affiliations in the early stages of the crude oil purchasing industry. Series I, Papers, contains military records, newspaper clippings, periodicals, photographs, transcripts of papers presented at meetings, and memoriams. Of special note is the transcript of an interview of Dietler conducted by Paul H. Giddens in 1970, which gives Dietler's accounts of his employment by Henry M. Blackmer, a Denver oil magnate who was embroiled in the infamous Teapot Dome scandal. Series II contains oversized materials and artifacts including certificates and awards, photographs, scrapbooks, and service pins and medals.

Author: Downing, Warwick Miller, 1875-1964
Title: Papers, 1893-1960, (bulk 1919-1960)
Size: 175 cubic ft. (384 boxes)

Summary

The collection documents Downing's career in the oil industry with emphasis on the Oregon Basin Oil & Gas Corporation and the development of the Oregon Basin, the Reiter Foster Oil Corporation, and the Interstate Oil Compact Commission. The bulk (about 140 cubic ft.) consists of alphabetic subject files (1920s-1950s) containing correspondence, meeting minutes, reports, leases, abstracts, and legal agreements. Numerous files are included on the Oregon Basin, Reiter Foster, the IOCC, the IPAA and API, the Colorado state legislature, and many other corporations and individuals. Also included are Downing's business correspondence files (about 30 cubic ft.) for 1919-1951, including correspondence with his son, Richard (1898- ). There are also oil well logs (1920s-1930s) of the Midwest Refining Company for wells in many states, and corporate minutes (1893-1941) for the Surety Investment Company.

Biography

Downing was an attorney, petroleum pioneer, investor and conservationist from Denver, Colorado. Originally from Illinois, he began practicing law in Denver in 1895 with special interest in cases relating to the oil industry. He later entered the oil industry and became a major developer of the Oregon Basin and Salt Creek oil fields in Wyoming. He served as a corporate officer of the Reiter Foster Oil Corporation, Oregon Basin Oil & Gas Corporation, and the Fremont Petroleum Company. Throughout his career Downing advocated conservation of oil and gas resources, and was instrumental in the establishment of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission. He also lobbied for creation of the Colorado Oil & Gas Conservation Commission, for which he served as chair from 1932 to 1963. While serving on the IOCC and the CO&GCC, he also was member or director of the National Petroleum Council, American Petroleum Institute, Independent Petroleum Association of America, and the Rocky Mountain Oil & Gas Association. In addition he was chair of the Mountain Parks Committee of the Denver Park Commission, which created the parks system west of Denver. Downing married Emma Leet in 1897; they divorced in 1915.

Author: Ethyl Corporation
Title: Records, 1823-1983
Size: 11.1 cubic ft. (25 boxes)

Summary
Collection contains mainly historical materials gathered by Boudreau for the history of the petroleum industry and corporation exhibits. Collection includes account books, stock certificates, newspapers and maps, advertisements, and other materials gathered by Boudreau and deal mostly with the petroleum industry in Pennsylvania (1823-1960). Also included is Thomas Midgley's correspondence (1919-1952) regarding scientific research and business matters; photographs and glass slides of research and equipment (1923-1943); publications and speeches (1923-1983); 10 8mm and 26 16mm service and training films; and 5 33 1/3 rpm phonograph records of a 1940 Charles Kettering speech and a 20th anniversary observation.

Biography
The Ethyl Corporation, chartered in Delaware in 1924, originated from the research efforts of scientists and chemical engineers Charles F. Kettering and Thomas Midgley, Jr. In 1921, Midgley and Kettering discovered tetraethyl lead as an anti-knock agent in automobile engines. Kettering named this tetraethyl lead "Ethyl" gasoline and made it available to the public in 1923. Midgley and Kettering founded the General Motors Chemical Company to provide distribution of the gasoline. Standard Oil Company of New Jersey joined General Motors Chemical in its manufacturing to create Ethyl Corporation in 1924. Kettering served as president of the corporation, serving until 1925. Midgley served as vice-president and general manager until his death in 1944. James Boudreau served as vice-president and general manager until his death in 1966. Earl Botholomew, an engineer, developed several important patents, including a special mixture of bromine and chlorine and an engine that could use tetraethyl lead and meet clear air regulations. In 1962, Albemarle Paper Manufacturing Company bought out Ethyl Corporation.

Collection also contains large amounts of secondary materials, including publications (some published by Standard Oil Company of New Jersey), journals, books, government documents, and bound papers from Standard Oil Company of New Jersey's corporate libraries. A 1909 scrapbook concerning the prosecution of Standard Oil Company of New Jersey under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act is in this collection as well.

Biography
Standard Oil Company of New Jersey was an oil company and holding company during the late 19th and early 20th centuries. Standard Oil Company of New Jersey was originally formed in 1882 as a refining and marketing arm of the Standard Oil Trust. When the Standard Oil Trust was broken up under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act in 1892, the trust was reorganized as Standard Oil Interests. Taking advantage of New Jersey laws that allowed corporations to own stock in other corporations, Standard Oil Company of New Jersey became a holding company that effectively replaced the Standard Oil Trust. In this capacity, it provided administrative coordination to Standard Oil Interests and held stock in forty-one other oil companies. In 1911, Standard Oil Company of New Jersey was split off from its subsidiaries by order of the U.S. Supreme Court under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act. Between 1911 and 1973, the company operated as an international oil company in its own right, producing and marketing petroleum products under a number of brands, including Esso, Enco, and Humble. It also controlled a number of other oil companies, including Humble Oil and Refining Company, Carter Oil Company, Imperial Oil Limited, and Standard of Louisiana. In 1973, Standard Oil of New Jersey changed its corporate name to Exxon to provide uniform branding of its products.

Biography
Universal Oil Products Company (UOP) played a major role in the development of the petroleum industry. UOP was established in 1915, having been instituted in 1914 by Jesse A. Dubbs, inventor and J. Ogden Armour, financier, as the National Hydrocarbon Company. C.P. Dubbs, son of the founder, headed research and development of technologies for the oil refining, petrochemical, and gas processing industries, centered in Independence, Kansas. In 1919 Universal Oil Products introduced Dubb's very successful thermal cracking process which was utilized worldwide until obsolescing. Headquartered in Chicago and then Des Plaines, Illinois, UOP offered the first viable catalytic condensation process and during World War II the company introduced needed innovations in aviation fuels and gasoline production. In the 21st century UOP licensed over fifty processes and supplied catalyst and adsorbents to the refining industry. UOP came under the Honeywell Company as its parent.

Biography
Montgomery Ward, the world's first general merchandise mail-order business, issued its first single sheet catalog in 1872. By 1887, the Chicago based company had annual sales exceeding $1,000,000 and in 1889 it became a privately held corporation. In 893, founder Aaron Montgomery Ward sold his controlling interest to partner George R. Thorne, and the company became a public corporation in 1919. In 1931, Sewell L. Avery became chairman and chief executive officer. His tenure was marked by labor troubles in the 1940s which culminated in two government seizures of the company in 1944. In 1968 Montgomery Ward merged with Container Corporation of America to form Marcor Inc. Mobil Oil Corporation gained a controlling interest in Marcor in 1974, and Wards became a subsidiary of Mobil. In 1988 senior management led a drive for a leveraged buyout and Wards became a privately-held company.
WHAT’S NOT INCLUDED

First, please note this list is not even close to being complete even for the categories of business represented, much less for categories omitted altogether. A search under the term “business” in our catalog returns just shy of 400 hits.

Second, not represented here are the hundreds of collections representing non-profit and professional organizations, local, state, and national. These run the gamut from the Laramie Piano Club to the Wyoming Library Association to the Friends of the Earth.

Third, omitted from this list are any records related to religious organizations, whether local churches, the Episcopal Diocese of Wyoming, or (for example) women’s groups.

Finally, records from the offices of Wyoming’s US Senators, US Representatives, and governors are not listed here, despite the fact that a researcher would find extensive files relating to business (in general and to specific businesses), economics, trade, development, investment, taxes, etc. within such collections.
