

TRAVELING EXHIBITS: More Pronghorn Than People

The story of the pronghorn in Wyoming is a story of abundance. The pronghorn can be seen in all four corners of the state and most everywhere in between. Few travelers in the state will return home without seeing herds of pronghorn along the highways. In fact, currently there are more pronghorn in Wyoming than there are human residents.

More Pronghorn than People is an exhibit that highlights that abundance. The images that follow show some of the many ways that people and the pronghorn have interacted, while other images feature the important role the pronghorn maintains in this state as well as around the world.

Size: 24 framed items (17" x 20" ea., 2 crates).

The American Heritage Center (AHC) is the University of Wyoming's repository of manuscripts collections, rare books, and the university archives. Many universities have primary source repositories. Few have repositories as extensive and significant as the AHC. More importantly, few universities have such repositories as welcoming and accessible to undergraduate and graduate students. Internationally known for its historical collections the AHC first and foremost serves the students and citizens of Wyoming. The AHC sponsors a wide range of scholarly and popular programs including lectures, symposia, and exhibits. Not a dusty attic or an exclusive sanctuary, the AHC is a welcoming, lively, place where both experts and novices engage with the original sources of history. Access is free and open to all.
