No More Sob Stories: Advancement of Women in Journalism in the 20th Century

Twentieth century women journalists broke incredible barriers. By the middle of the century women were reporting on complex topics and had gained access to places and events where women had not been before. Derived from collections at the American Heritage Center, University of Wyoming, this exhibit focuses on five diverse women from the early to mid-1900s who sought adventure, equal opportunities, and forged change.

Size: 24 framed items (20" x 32" ea.)

The American Heritage Center (AHC) is the University of Wyoming's repository of manuscripts collections, rare books, and the university archives. Many universities have primary source repositories. Few have repositories as extensive and significant as the AHC. More importantly, few universities have such repositories as welcoming and accessible to undergraduate and graduate students. Internationally known for its historical collections the AHC first and foremost serves the students and citizens of Wyoming. The AHC sponsors a wide range of scholarly and popular programs including lectures, symposia, and exhibits. Not a dusty attic or an exclusive sanctuary, the AHC is a welcoming, lively, place where both experts and novices engage with the original sources of history. Access is free and open to all.
