

TRAVELING EXHIBITS: J. K. Moore

During the late 1800s James K. Moore served as the post trader and Indian trader at Fort Washakie on the Wind River Reservation, located in the Territory of Wyoming.

Moore lived on the reservation for several decades during which he photographically documented life at the fort and the reservation. His son, J.K. Moore, Jr., continued photographing the area and people after his father's retirement to California in 1906. This exhibit displays a portion of the Moore's work as a pictorial window on the daily lives of people living at the fort and reservation during that period.

The American Heritage Center (AHC) is the University of Wyoming's repository of manuscripts collections, rare books, and the university archives. Many universities have primary source repositories. Few have repositories as extensive and significant as the AHC. More importantly, few universities have such repositories as welcoming and accessible to undergraduate and graduate students. Internationally known for its historical collections the AHC first and foremost serves the students and citizens of Wyoming. The AHC sponsors a wide range of scholarly and popular programs including lectures, symposia, and exhibits. Not a dusty attic or an exclusive sanctuary, the AHC is a welcoming, lively, place where both experts and novices engage with the original sources of history. Access is free and open to all.
