• K-12 teachers: arts education specialists, general elementary classroom teachers, discipline specific teachers at the secondary level, special education teachers
• Community educators: Boys and Girls clubs, Parks and Recreation programs, senior centers, museums, libraries, and more

JOIN US AS WE EXPLORE TWO MAJOR THEMES:
• Examine the importance of place as a vehicle for forging “new” conversations of the West
• Building school and community partnerships for art education

COST:
• Individuals - $150 per person, $50 non-refundable pre-registration fee
• Partners - $150 for first, $125 for second partner, $100 for any additional partners, $50 non-refundable pre-registration fee for each partner, all partners must register together

The registration fee is deducted from the total cost of the Institute. Lunch and snacks are included daily. Participants are responsible for their own breakfast and evening meals, room, and travel costs.
DESCRIPTION:
This summer’s Institute will examine the intersection of diverse voices and artistic vision that inform contemporary dialogs of place. UW Visual Art Department Associate Professor Ashley Hope Carlisle and Instructor David Jones, as well as other artists and instructors from the region, will enrich our understanding of the current forces at work in the Western landscape. Artmobile Curator Erica Ramsey will share the new Artmobile exhibition and participants will be able to schedule Artmobile visits for the 2015-2016 school year. The Art Museum Master Teacher Heather Bender will use the museum’s inquiry process to encourage deep reflection and engage all of us, instructor and participant alike, in creating new conversations about place.

Studio time is included every afternoon to explore new materials and ideas inspired by the original artwork, objects, and books you will encounter. Whether you have no studio experience, or are an accomplished artist, this 5-day workshop sets the stage for developing new skills and deepening creative experiences with familiar skills.
