GUIDELINES FOR NOMINATION

Do you know of a College of Arts and Sciences alumna(us) who has found an extraordinary way to use her/his liberal arts and sciences education to make a difference in the world? If you do, consider nominating that person for this distinct award. Guidelines for submitting a nomination follow:

1. To be eligible for nomination, persons must be graduates of the College of Arts and Sciences. A short biography and resumé or curriculum vitae are necessary components of the nomination. If the nominee is deceased, an obituary is acceptable. The above materials and a completed nomination form are needed for the nomination to be processed.

2. One nomination letter and at least three supporting letters are required. All letters should discuss the nominee’s professional endeavors and awards, community service, and demonstrated commitment to the College of Arts and Sciences and UW. Please do not submit more than five supporting letters.

3. Letters of support should be written by professional colleagues; acquaintances and colleagues involved with professional and community service organizations with which the nominee has been engaged or held office; colleagues or friends who can attest to the nominee’s special qualities. Copies of newspaper and/or magazine articles that illustrate the nominee’s accomplishments also are accepted.
