Title: Credit for Repeat Courses

Introduced: December 1, 1987

Sponsors: Marty Kanarowski, Stacey Restivo, Jeff Colwell, Jaimie Bright, Jennifer Gras, Eagan Wilson

1. Whereas students should be allowed to improve their grades if they are
2. willing to put in extra time and money; whereas they may not get an ade-
3. quate grade, either personally or academically, in their chosen major;
4. whereas the student should have the right to choose options for his/her
5. academic future; whereas not being able to repeat a course may put an
6. undue responsibility on the student for a poor grade, not taking into
7. consideration possible mitigating factors causing poor performance;
8. whereas the student's best earned grade should be used in computation of 9. grade point average due to the mastering the required material; whereas
10. many freshman and transfer students may have trouble adjusting to univer-
11. sity life, possibly causing poorer performance than the student is capable 12. of; whereas this university is for the benefit of educating its students;
13. whereas of 345 University of Wyoming students surveyed, a majority pre-
14. ferred to be allowed to repeat a course at least two times if his/her
15. final grade is a D or F; be it resolved by the Student Senate of the ASUW
16. that it support and adopt as policy the stance that courses be repeatable
17. at least two times and that the highest grade received be reflected in
18. computing cumulative grade point averages.
