RE: Centennial Singers

I am happy to write a note encouraging Student Senate support for the University of Wyoming Centennial Singers. While I am not able to provide hard data to show that the Singers have increased University of Wyoming enrollment, I am very aware that the positive image and promotion of the University by the Singers is very valuable to our overall image.

The Centennial Singers are a dynamic, energetic, enthusiastic group of students representative of the University of Wyoming! I hope they will be able to continue to entertain and educate students in our state and the surrounding region.

Dear Kristen:

It is my understanding that you will be asking ASUW for funds to assist the Centennial Singers in paying for use of the ASUW van.

This is an excellent idea, as this group of outstanding UW students are excellent ambassadors for our university.

They affect the university in so many positive ways including image, outreach, and public relations--and probably above all in student recruitment.

The Singers have taken the university out to the state and region the past two years and have represented UW in exemplary fashion. They have shared their talents and enthusiasm to the benefit of the university as a whole.

Any financial assistance the Alumni Association provides the Singers is repaid over and above in the pride they generate from the citizens of Wyoming for their university. I am certain ASUW will feel the same if they provide this much needed support.
