

Trimerotropis barnumi

Trimerotropis barnumi is very similar to T. agrestis. It is known from sand dunes in Utah and other Great Basin states. We collected it four different years from the same sand dune in northern Sweetwater County. It probably occurs on other sand dune areas in southwest Wyoming. Adults were collected between mid July and mid September in an area of open sand and Rumex plants. It is not considered a pest species of grasshopper.
