

Bureau of Reclamation in Denver CO has an opening for an Electronics Engineer; responsible for most of their data acquisition, software development and procedures for testing variety of materials utilizing existing or new equipment: also, assist in meeting increasing water demands while protecting the environment.

Responsibilities include developing, designing, constructing, calibrating, installing, and maintaining special measuring, recording and controlling devices; making recommendations; and writing and maintaining computer software for data acquisition and control of testing equipment.

Apply on-line through the USAjobs.gov site...the deadline to apply is Wed, Dec 7.

<https://www.usajobs.gov/GetJob/ViewDetails/457485300/>