

LISTENING TO NATURE

An Evening of Readings and Photography by Scientists and Artists

Friday, October 28, 2011

5:30 p.m. - 7:00 p.m.

Berry Biodiversity Conservation
Center Auditorium

Master of Ceremonies:

Mark Clementz

Associate Professor of Geology and Geophysics

Guest Readers:

Ann McCutchan, Frieda Knobloch, Courtney Carlson,

Dennis Knight, Pete Gosar

Guest Photographers:

Ken Driese, Ed Sherline, Brett Deacon

Co-sponsored by the University of Wyoming's MFA in Creative Writing and the Wyoming Outdoor Council, the event invites the public to enjoy a display of award-winning photographs and a lively set of brief readings by students and alums of the MFA program, faculty in the arts, sciences, and humanities, and members of the local community.

Held in the auditorium of the Berry Biodiversity Conservation Center, lasting 90 minutes, and including a wine and cheese reception, "Listening to Nature" seeks to bring together a range of communities in celebration of the power of the image and the written word.
