Request for Proposal
Economics Undergraduate Research Assistant Program

Purpose: This Request for Proposal (RFP) process will allocate Economics Undergraduate Research Assistant Program funding available in summer of 2021. The Program provides UW undergraduate economics majors direct experiential learning opportunity in economic research under faculty guidance.

Our aim is to facilitate students' achievement of their educational and career goals through a mentored program that develops intellectual capacity and practical skills. The Program will improve a student's ability to undertake independent research.

Our Program is committed to achieving three goals:

- Enrich students' learning experience,
- Increase the value of their degrees,
- Expand their classroom experiences into the hands-on practice of economic research.

This program will develop innovative professionals attractive to future employers and graduate programs.

Students will get faculty mentored, hands-on experience in how to conduct research in economics. You will learn how to design a research question and how to implement a strategy to address the question. You will focus on learning specific research skills and will acquire and improve your knowledge of scientific software. You will acquire a deeper understanding of data collection and data management techniques. Importantly, you will participate in a research project as a member of a research team, and will learn to communicate the results of the research effectively.
