The London Semester is open to faculty applicants across UW! The program offers faculty opportunities to teach and pursue research while our partners in London provide additional classes, student services, logistics, student housing, cultural activities, and classroom support. Located in central London (Bloomsbury), the program offers access to museums, libraries, theaters, historic sites, and other resources of a major urban area. Courses in London are taught by faculty from a consortium of American universities, each of which sends faculty members and a group of students. Students choose from the courses taught by these instructors and other courses taught by resident British faculty. Faculty members selected to go to London will help publicize the program on campus and speak with prospective students.

While in London, the UW faculty member will serve as a link between London Semester students and UW. Faculty members who are selected will work with the Education Abroad Office to recruit, interview, and select students for participation in the program.

APPLICATION DEADLINE: February 15, 2019

Selected faculty will be notified by March 15, 2019

For questions or to submit your application materials, contact Shelley Jewell at (307) 766-3678 or sjewell1@uwyo.edu.

---

Details

The London Semester Spring 2020 selectee will:

- Teach two general interest courses of your choosing (See criteria at right.)
- Supervise UW students in a mandatory 3 cr. hr., S-U course on “British Life and Culture” taught by a rotation of all professors
- Pursue appropriate academic research

On top of the regular departmental salary, the selectee will receive:

- One round-trip plane ticket (Denver/London or Laramie/London) with cost approved by Education Abroad
- A small subsidy for added living expenses (Note: this additional support will be supplemental; it won’t cover all expenses.)

---

Application Process

Interested faculty members should submit:

- Two course descriptions, including book lists, syllabi, and an account of how your courses will make use of London resources *(At least one course should fulfill University Studies requirements, and one should be lower-division. Neither class shall have pre-reqs.)
- Examples of relevant teaching evaluations for at least one of the courses submitted
- Two-page Curriculum Vitae
- Brief description or research to be pursued that makes use of the London location
- Statement that describes your student recruitment strategy
- A letter of support from your department head, CC’d to your Dean’s Office (This should include how your UW campus teaching load will be covered if you are selected to teach in London.)

Please note that there are no lab facilities, so courses should be lecture/discussion-based.