Established in 1886, University of Wyoming is a nationally recognized research institution with accomplished faculty and world-class facilities.

2016 AIESEP INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE

Blazing New Trails: Future Directions for Sport Pedagogy and Physical Activity

Conference Sub-themes

1. The role of physical education in the promotion of physical activity in the public health agenda.
2. Professional development for the enhancement of teacher and coach knowledge and practice.
3. Social responsibility and culturally responsive practices in physical education, sport, and physical activity.
4. Pedagogical practices in physical education and sport.
5. Policy and curriculum innovation in physical education, sport, and health promotion.

Pre-conference Sessions:

June 8, Wednesday Afternoon

► Spectrum of Teaching Styles— Research, Practice, and Theory

This pre-conference session will include demonstrations of several of the Spectrum teaching styles and research on the Spectrum. Sara Ashworth will deliver an invited address as part of the symposium. Several other invited presentations will be made by Spectrum users/ researchers. Come celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Spectrum of Teaching Styles!

► TGfU—Creating a More Informed Approach to the Teaching and Coaching of Games

In recent years a number of very important conceptual frameworks have emerged which have major implications for how we think about the teaching and coaching of games and creating informed quality practice. This interactive workshop has been designed to bring these frameworks alive and to demonstrate their effectiveness. A handbook explaining how four conceptual frameworks (complexity theory, constraints-led perspective, capability approach and embodied cognition) have significance for the teaching and coaching of games will be provided.
