

Book X.
Title LXIV.

In what places women must perform services suitable to their sex and fill positions of honor.

(De mulieribus in quo loco munera sexui congruenta et honores agnoscant.)

10.64.1. Emperor Philip to Claudius.

Malchaea, who was born in one place and married in another, cannot, if her husband does not reside in Rome, be compelled to fill positions of honor or perform personal liturgies suitable to her sex, in the place of her birth, but in the place of residence of her husband. Rescripts to that effect have been issued often. Women, however, must bear patrimonial liturgies in the places where their property is located.<sup>1</sup>

---

<sup>1</sup> [Blume] See C. 10.52.5.