University of Wyoming – Summer Camps 2022 Guidelines

The following sections provide guidelines for the 2022 Summer Camp Sessions.

UW Sponsored Camps

Participants in conferences/camps sponsored by and held on the University campus must follow the most current University COVID-19 policies in effect at the time the camp is held. All conference/camp participants (or their parents/legal guardians, for those under 18) must sign a waiver/assumption of risk document that includes information pertaining to a risk of exposure to COVID-19. The waiver should include language indicating that if the student/camp attendee tests positive for COVID-19, the University will contact the parent/guardian and upon notification, the parent/guardian will arrange to take the student home as expeditiously as possible.

External Campus

For those conferences/camps not owned or operated by the institution but held on campus grounds, conference/camp organizers are responsible for the operational and other camp requirements. However, the conference/camp organizer is required to have participants sign a waiver/assumption of risk document that will also name the University of Wyoming as a benefited party to the waiver.

General Guidelines

Conference/camp organizers will track attendee information and collect/maintain records of camp waivers. Various resources are available to conference/camp organizers to assist them with their testing needs, including:

- Local medical clinics including but not limited to: Grand Avenue Urgent Care, Stitches (Nova Health) Acute Care Center, and Walgreens.

Camps can encourage participants to have the COVID-19 vaccination/s, but vaccinations cannot be required.

The University further recommends that when possible, conference/camp organizers consider:

- Use of UW Catering for food service due to their COVID-related safety training and precautions.
- Communication efforts geared to participants who are higher risk for severe illness, alerting them of their ability to request accommodations or virtual offerings.