- A three-month, low-intensive plan
- A six-month, medium-intensive plan
- A one-month, high-intensive plan

New Financial Literacy Curriculum:

Practical Money Skills

Teens aren’t typically known for their financial responsibility—yet many are already using complex financial strategies. For example, shopping at the mall calls for cost comparisons, and saving for a skateboard requires budgeting. To learn about responsible money management, it’s important to take a look at the building blocks of financial decision-making.

Money 101: Student Workbook

A Crash Course in Better Money Management For College Students

For many students, going to college means living independently for the first time, which also means having to make new and sometimes challenging financial decisions. Financial responsibility may be new to you—and even if it isn’t, chances are you could still use a few pointers. The purpose of this workbook is to help you learn how to budget your money as well as understand how financial services and products work so that you can take control of your financial future with confidence.

Press Release!

Wyoming Superintendent of Public Instruction Jillian Balow applauds a new law that provides greater flexibility for Wyoming students to qualify for a Hathaway Scholarship.

Senate File 43 expands Hathaway Scholarship opportunities. Wyoming students with an aptitude and passion for specialty trades now have more options for meeting the Hathaway Success Curriculum requirements in high school.

For 2019 and 2020 high school graduates, students can take either the current Success Curriculum or the new amended curriculum. The new Success Curriculum will take full effect in the 2021 school year.

Introducing

Jamie Iiams
Assistant Coordinator

Jamie Iiams was born and raised on a ranch in Lander, Wyoming. She attended Lander Valley High School, enrolled Central Wyoming College, transferred to Utah State University, and graduated with a Bachelor’s Degree in Family, Consumer, and Human Development with an emphasis in Family and Community Services. Jamie was a 2004 TRIO Achiever Award Recipient and she is a first generation graduate with a hearing disability. After graduating from Utah State University, she worked for the State of Wyoming as a Child Care Licenser for over 8 years.

Jamie enjoys spending time with her family, watching her nephews grow up, working on the family ranch, and caring for her pets. She has a wide variety of interests ranging from fishing, reading, traveling, and learning. One of Jamie’s future goals is to obtain her Master’s Degree. She strongly believes in helping others to be successful at achieving their dreams through learning, working hard and not being afraid to take the first step.

“Being a first generation college graduate is possible because I took the first step, I did it with the help and guidance of so many wonderful mentors and you can too.”
