Trustee Bostrom stated that the purpose of the meeting was to discuss the search for the 24th president of the University of Wyoming. He then provided some background regarding President Buchanan’s initial announcement to retire, and the search process over the previous months. Trustee Bostrom stated that this is the most important decision the members the Board of Trustees will make during their time on the Board, and in the months leading up to this meeting, have taken every action to make this search successful.

Trustee Bostrom then thanked his fellow trustees for their interest, compassion, attention, dedication, and support during this process. He then thanked Betty Asher and Lisa Hagan with the search firm Greenwood/Asher for their assistance in creating a pool of 88 applicants for this position. Trustee Bostrom thanked the members of the Tier I and Tier II Presidential Search Process Screening Committees for their service to this important task; the faculty, staff, students, and constituents around the state for providing feedback and creating a presidential profile that would fit the University and state; the legislature for their support of the confidential process which is now in place for the future searches; and a final expression of appreciation to University President Tom Buchanan for his tremendous leadership for the last eight years and for making the University recognized internationally in teaching and research.

Trustee MacPherson commented that the Board of Trustees will issue a statement delineating why the Board of Trustees moved forward with an open process; the statement will come before the Board for consideration at the March 7-8, 2013, Board of Trustees meeting.
