DESCRIPTION

Are you seeking a career that will allow you to positively impact Wyoming communities and people? Do you value public service and seek an outlet that allows you to serve the public through educational programs you create? Are you committed to lifelong learning and find value in sharing that with others?

The mission of University of Wyoming Extension (UWE) is to empower the people of Wyoming to make choices that enhance their quality of life. By actively involving Wyoming people, institutions, and communities, UWE shows a commitment to relevance, diversity, people, connectivity, accountability, innovation, entrepreneurship, and respect. With this in mind UWE will be responsive to the needs, concerns, and aspirations of the people of Wyoming and will actively involve residents, institutions, and communities as we provide learning for better living. If you seek a rewarding career that allows you to be a part of this mission and vision, please consider this open position.

Community Vitality and Health Extension Educators are expected to deliver research-based educational programs and work within team settings that may consist of other Extension Educators, community professionals, and faculty within and outside of UWE as well as develop relationships with key stakeholder groups vital to the success of Extension. Educational programming in this area would include participatory planning, building entrepreneurial communities, workforce development, community decision support tools, leadership development, and other areas as identified.

This position is based in Basin, Wyoming.

To assure full consideration, all application materials must be received by July 27, 2022. Screening will continue until a suitable candidate is identified.

UW is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Educator and Employer. We are committed to a multicultural environment and strongly encourage applications from women, minorities, veterans and persons with disabilities. In compliance with the ADA Amendments Act (ADAAA), if you have a disability and would like to request an accommodation to apply for a position, please call (307) 766-2377 or email jobapps@uwyo.edu.
