Building the capacity of school principals and other school and district leaders to improve student outcomes.

About the School Leadership Network

UW ECHO in School Leadership will build the capacity of school principals and other school and district leaders to improve student outcomes.

Who should attend:

Network participants could include principals, assistant principals, lead teachers and other school level leaders, aspiring principals, superintendents and principal supervisors, instructional facilitators/coaches, professional development directors and staff, curriculum directors, special education directors, higher education faculty teaching in Educational Leadership, and state agency staff.

What is UW ECHO?

UW ECHO delivers virtual professional development to support community conversations around best practice in education, health, and disability services.

Benefits of UW ECHO:

- Increase the capacity of principals and leaders to implement best practices in school leadership
- Increase the application of evidenced-based and best practices with principals and other school leaders
- Increase principals' self-efficacy in all areas of school leadership
- Establish an effective platform for distance and educational leadership training and school management
- Contribute to the field of educational leadership by determining the impact of school leadership on student outcomes in Wyoming
- Attend session from any location using videoconferencing technology
