

IMPROVING CHILDHOOD HEALTH OUTCOMES: Family perspective modules

Wyoming Family to Family Health Information Center, a project of Wyoming Institute for Disabilities, is offering a course series on improving childhood health outcomes for children with special health care needs. Professionals in Wyoming can earn STARS credits through the Family to Family online course for no cost.

Learn how, with these modules, to provide better information and increased support for families who have children with special health care needs. Topics include:

Autism Spectrum Disorder

Breastfeeding

Developmental Milestones

Good Nutrition

Medical Home

Medication Use

Socialization

Well-Being and Mental Health

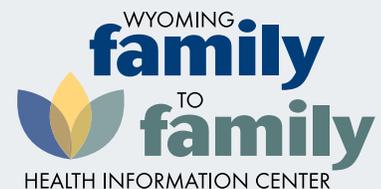

Location: Online distance courses that can be completed at any time. Each module contains videos and information related to each topic area. After reviewing the materials in the module, complete the quiz located at the end of the module.

Registration: To enroll visit www.uwyo.edu/wind/f2f/training.html

Continuing Education: STARS or continuing education units are available for each module.

Questions: Please E-mail WyoF2F@uwyo.edu or call (307) 766-2441.

Wyoming Family to Family Health
Information Center

www.uwyo.edu/wind/f2f | (307) 766-2441

STARS credits are available for each module listed above, please see our website, <http://www.uwyo.edu/wind/f2f/training.html> for credit specifics.