

Figure 2-4. Main direction of blood flow through the hypothalamic-anterior pituitary portal system. Because of circulatory instability, hormones like GnRH take an abbreviated route to their target site.