

CALLING ALL INCOMING AND CURRENT UW STUDENTS!

Apply now to the
UW College of Health Science
Interprofessional Aspire to Geriatrics! Program

About the Aspire to Geriatrics! Program:

The Wyoming Center on Aging is proud to announce the launch of the first interprofessional Aspire! program - Aspire to Geriatrics! Students selected to participate in this program will be given many opportunities to develop their knowledge of aging and geriatric healthcare. Opportunities will include a lunch and learn series with leaders in geriatrics in Wyoming, as well as networking, funded travel, and conference attendance. There are also benefits such as priority registration and recognition at graduation.

Each school/division within the College has its own Aspire! program. The College of Health Sciences' Aspire! program encourages, promotes, and nurtures scholarship, leadership, and professionalism in our future health care professionals through mentorship and professional development.

Benefits of participating in the Aspire to Geriatrics! Program:

- Opportunities to network with and learn from leaders in geriatrics and aging services in Wyoming
- Invitations to special campus events
- Priority registration each semester
- Opportunities for travel and conference attendance
- A chord worn at graduation symbolizing your participation in Aspire!
- A commencement breakfast honoring your accomplishments

Who should apply:

UW students with a passion for working in and becoming leaders in geriatric health care are encouraged to apply for the Aspire to Geriatrics! program. Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors, and students who plan to enter a health care profession are invited to apply. Students in professional or graduate programs are allowed to apply.
