

TORI CAMPBELL

PRESIDENT, MIZZEN ENERGY SERVICES
COBAB CHAIR

Bachelor of Science 1991, Business Administration

Tori Campbell has over 30 years of experience in public and private companies. Her entrepreneurial career kicked into high gear in 2012 when she became President of Mizzen Energy Services, an advisory services company and co-founded of Mizzen Energy, LLC. Ms. Campbell previously served as the Vice President and General Manager of Enserco Energy Inc., a wholly owned, non-regulated energy marketing subsidiary of Black Hills Corporation (NYSE: BKH). In this role, she was the chief officer responsible for the strategic direction of nearly 60 employees and negotiated transactions in natural gas, crude oil, coal, power, and environmental products. Her prior energy experience spanned 11 years with Aquila Energy and Colorado Interstate Gas Company.

Ms. Campbell graduated from the University of Wyoming and its honors program with a BS in Business Administration in 1991. Lifelong education includes completion of the Colorado Bar Association's Mediation Certification, Columbia University's School of Business Emerging Leader Development Program, and five years of intensive post-graduate study in a business professionals' course. She also counts her travel to all seven continents as part of her continuing education.

As a Wyoming native, Ms. Campbell lived in Converse County. Four generations of her family have graduated from UW. She now lives in Denver with her husband, an engineer and UW graduate. Ms. Campbell was selected as a Wise Woman, an invitation-only group of community- and-globally-minded business executives. She is past chair of a Texas based not-for-profit educational foundation. She was recognized as one of the Top Women in Energy and a College of Business Distinguished Alumna.
