

Mrs. A. J. Richards

Robert Burns

Irven Revell

Ralph E. McWhinnie

Leslie Crawford

Burton Marston

Mrs. Samuel Knight

Homecoming

Although there was definitely something (the parade) missing in this year's Homecoming, alums returned to the campus by the scores and students carried on the Sing, the Iron Skull Skid, held openhouses, and even revived an old element of the festive weekend—house decorations.

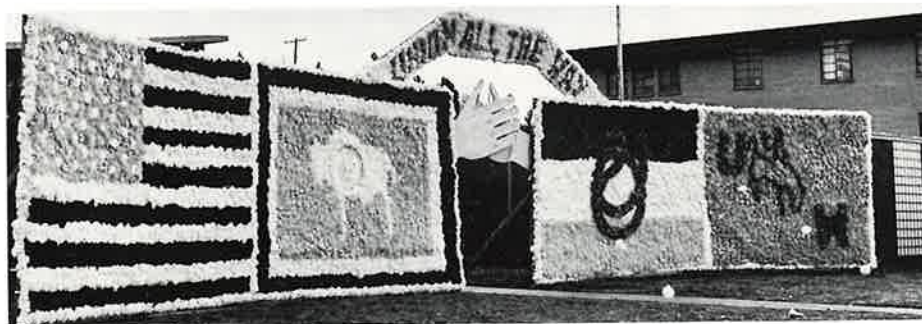

Not since 1953 had fraternities, sororities and residence halls had outdoor decorations as they did this year. The sweepstakes award for decorations went to Sigma Nu; fraternity winner was Sigma Alpha Epsilon; sorority winner was Chi Omega; and Orr Hall won the independent award.

Kappa Kappa Gamma won the overall trophy for the Sing, Chi Omega won in the women's division, Kappa Sigma in the men's classification and for the coeducational groups Lambda Delta Sigma was the winner.

Seven members of the class of 1920 received their 50-year pins at a buffet at President and Mrs. Carlson's home. Many older grads also attended the dinner.

The Alumni Achievement Award went to Mary Fisher in honor of her husband Max, who died last March.

Most alumni and a large percentage of students expressed a feeling of loss with the absence of the parade, and the general concensus was that the traditional event should be reinstituted.

At top, President Carlson presented 50-year pins to seven graduates of the Class of 1920. Above left, the WyoGals, a new campus service group, helped Mrs. Laura Holliday, BA '08, at registration. Left, Sigma Nu's won the sweepstakes award for house decorations.