

THE JASON C. REHER MEMORIAL FUND

Jason

Jason C. Reher, beloved son of Dr. Charles A. and Sandra Reher, loved working on archaeological digs with his father and traveling the United States and England with his mother and sister. He went from playing in archaeology site backdirt piles with his trucks, to taking field classes, to professional employment on site excavations. He loved skiing, and for at least one day in 1986 he was the best cross-country skier in Wyoming when he won the Governor's Cup race. He could make stone tools, catch big trout, bowl a perfect 300, and install and maintain whole computer systems (a degree in Electrical Engineering, systems manager for a large ski area and hotel resort complex, or in charge of a whole region for a large computer firm.) He was charismatic and kind and loved his cats. He is greatly missed by all who knew him. His family memorial is at: www.jasonreher.com.

The Fund

Established in December 2011, the Jason C. Reher Memorial Fund supports undergraduate and graduate students studying Wyoming archaeology in the UW Department of Anthropology. It may be used for fellowship awards, support for archaeological research activities (stipends, travel, equipment, supplies), and educational activities related to archaeological research (public programs, museum projects, coordination with Native American tribes). Preference is given to research activities conducted in the eastern part of Wyoming that involve more recent time periods ("post-Paleoindian").

Giving

The University of Wyoming and its Department of Anthropology look forward to the impact this fund will have on students and the faculty and programs that support them. To make a donation online: visit www.uwyo.edu/giveonline. Follow the instructions, and type "Reher Memorial Fund" in the gift designation line.
