

SCHOLARSHIPS THAT COULD FUND YOUR PARTICIPATION IN
INST 4990: MIDDLE EAST: THE ISRAELI PALESTINIAN CONFLICT AND PEACE PROCESS

All of these scholarships have a firm deadline of March 15th – so you would want to apply for these even as you are completing their CIEL (Israel/Palestine course) application packets. At the same time, they would also want to complete their UW Study Abroad registration r for the program via Cowboy's Abroad Portal at:

<https://uwyo-sa.terradotta.com/index.cfm?FuseAction=Programs.ViewProgramAngular&id=44753>

UW Scholarships

All UW students enrolling in a faculty-led study abroad program (like the CIEL Middle East Program or CIEL Northern Ireland program) are eligible to receive the 'Dick and Lynne Cheney Study-Abroad Faculty Directed Programs' Scholarship. All this requires is for you to answer a few short questions and this year they are awarding approximately $1000 to every student. You can find the link to this opportunity here: <https://uwyo.academicworks.com/opportunities/36976>

Second, if you are a SPPAIS major (or minor) in Political Science or International Studies you are also eligible to apply for a 'SPPAIS Study Abroad Scholarship' valued at up to $2500 to support the cost of your program. While this is a competitive pool, since no applications were funded in the previous years due to COVID-19 the chances of success (and higher awards) are likely much greater this year. A link for this can be found here: <https://uwyo.academicworks.com/opportunities/34992>

Third, if you have an Honors Minor (and have a GPA of 3.25 or above), you are also eligible to receive the 'Honors Study Abroad Scholarship' for Summer 2022 which this year is valued at $1000 to every student who applies to support the costs of your program. A link for this award can be found at: <https://uwyo.academicworks.com/opportunities/34595>

In addition, if you are a Political Science or Communications and Journalism major, you can apply for the competitive 'Judith A. Muhlberg Endowment for Study Abroad' which is valued at $5000 to support a study abroad program. A link for this can be found here: <https://uwyo.academicworks.com/opportunities/36110>

For students with an Arts or Humanities major (broadly defined) who have 30 credit hours completed/in progress and a 3.25 GPA can also apply for the 'Sheila Langlois Memorial Fellowship for Study Abroad in Art History and the Humanities' (including art history, history, literature, philosophy, religious studies, modern/classical languages, international studies, political science or other) interdisciplinary fields. There are only two of these awarded each year but they are valued at up to $10,000 each! A link can be found here: <https://uwyo.academicworks.com/opportunities/36982>

Last, there is the 'Saunders-Walter Study Abroad Fund in Arts and Sciences' available to any student enrolled in the College of A&S who is at least a sophomore and registered in a study abroad program through UW. A link for this can be found here: <https://uwyo.academicworks.com/opportunities/36980>

In addition, you will want to see if there are any other potential scholarships you might be eligible for based on your own academic program or background. For instance, there is a scholarship if you are an English major, a Kappa Kappa Gamma (or other sorority) member at UW, or have financial need and bank at UNIWYO credit Union.

Aside from the above, you will also want to check out the Education Abroad Study Abroad Scholarship portal (if you haven't yet) at: <http://www.uwyo.edu/uwyoabroad/money-matters/financial-aid-scholarships.html>. I would strongly suggest that you apply widely and for any and all scholarship opportunities for which you are eligible – these scholarships are 'stackable' (meaning you can receive multiple awards) and often these awards are not fully disbursed each year due to a lack of applicants. If you are able to apply for multiple scholarships, this can substantially defray – or fully cover – the costs of your program participation this summer – so apply!