

Request for Interpretation: ASUW Finance Policy, Article 3, Section 3.13, Clause 3

Chief Justice Hoversland delivered the Majority Opinion of the ASUW Judicial Council on September 12th, 2021, in which Secretary Cloud and Associate Justices De Meillon, Otuya, Salazar, Sankey, and Schweisberger joined.

Background

Near the end of the 108th administration of ASUW, a graduate student contacted the ASUW executive office asking how to receive funding to attend a conference during the summer. Because the Student Organization Funding Board (SOFB) was not meeting at the time, the student was directed to pay for and attend the conference and wait until the fall semester when the 109th administration's Senate was convened and the SOFB met again (Addendum A). The student did this at the direction of the previous administration without any questions and trusting their expertise on the working documents of ASUW. When the fall rolled around, the student applied for conference funding on their own and not affiliated with any student organization (SO) (Addendum B); the student appeared in front of the SOFB to seek reimbursement for the conference attended and the matter ended up in front of the ASUW Senate on Tuesday, August 31st, 2021. When the motion arose to approve the funding, another motion was brought by Senator Wilkins to table the matter until the ASUW Judicial Council (JC) could rule on whether or not a student could receive funding directly from the SOFB (Addendum C).

Question

That is what brings this decision of the JC. On September 1st, 2021, the JC received a request from President Hunter Swilling, Director of Finance and Student Organizations Nicole Reyes-Aguilar, and Senator Dylan Laverell to interpret Article 3, Section 3.13, Clause 3 of the ASUW Finance Policy, which reads "only those who are members of the ASUW are eligible to receive monies for registration fees."

President Swilling, Director of Finance and Student Organizations Reyes-Aguilar, and Senator Laverell posed the following questions:

1. Is a student who is not affiliated with a student organization allowed to receive funding from the ASUW SO Funding Board to attend a conference?
2. Does Article 3, Section 3.13, Clause 3 of the ASUW Finance Policy create any ambiguity regarding the previous question?

Interpretation and Recommendation

The purpose of the ASUW Student Government can be found in the preamble of the ASUW Constitution, which states that "the student body of the University of Wyoming, seeking to provide an effective organization to promote the general welfare of all students at the University, to represent the concerns for the student body, and to provide for and regulate such other matters.” Moreover, the purpose of the SOFB can be derived from Article 3, Section 3.02, Clause 3 of the ASUW Finance Policy, which reads “SOs may only receive funding when the program or activity is open to the entire student population and has a valid educational and/or enrichment purpose.” By extension, this tells us that the purpose of the SOFB is to serve the entire student population by giving them means to grow academically and professionally. The JC believes that the conference the student attended did meet this purpose (Addendum D). That was not the question at hand.

The questions asked in this RFI were answered together, as the clause in the second question was helpful to the JC in answering the first question. The Council relied on the letter of the law to answer these questions and found there to be a layered approach to who could receive funding from the SOFB. The word in focus from Article 3, Section 3.13, Clause 3 of the ASUW Finance Policy was ‘those.’ Did the ambiguous word ‘those’ refer to SOs or students? The answer to this was found from two clauses of the ASUW Finance Policy: one, Article 3, Section 3.01, Clause 2, which states “the ASUW Senate through the SO Funding Board possesses sole authority to allocate ASUW funds directly to SOs which are not Programs, Services, or Strategic Partners of the ASUW.” Two, Article 3, Section 3.01, Clause 3, which states “Only the ASUW SO Funding Board shall have authority to allocate ASUW funds directly to a SO.” The words in focus for both clauses is ‘directly to SOs’ and ‘directly to a SO.’

Because of the phrasing of ‘directly,’ the JC found that any funding coming from the SOFB must be awarded to SOs only, and not just any individual student. Additionally, the clause in question two adds clarity to where SOFB funding can be directed, not ambiguity as the question stated. Article 3, Section 3.13, Clause 3 of the ASUW Finance Policy adds the layer to how the student fees can be allocated. It gives the clarification that “only those who are members of the ASUW are eligible to receive monies for registration fees.” Who is a member of the ASUW? The Constitution of ASUW answers that question for us.

Article III, Section 1 of the ASUW Constitution reads: “A student enrolled in the University of Wyoming shall be a member of the ASUW during each regular semester of registration when payment or remission of registration fees is made in the amount specified by the University to be recognized as the ASUW Fee.” Furthermore, Article 3, Section 3.13, Clause 1 of the ASUW Finance Policy specifies that an SO may only receive $750.00 per semester to go towards conference registration fees for its members. In this case, the individual student was asking for $435.00. It tends to be the case that the $750.00 an SO receives is rationed to many students, so they do not always receive the full registration fee.

Because of the above, the JC answers both questions in the negative; a student who is not affiliated with an SO may not receive funding to cover conference registration fees. Further, the Council clarified that the SOFB may only allocate funds directly to SOs and the students the SO will designate those very funds for must be confirmed to be ASUW fee-paying students and a confirmed member of the SO, per their own set guidelines.

In closing, the Council recognizes the burden this ruling places on the student in question. The JC also understands that the student body has the right to vote and run in ASUW elections to put their student leaders in elected office. Further, the ASUW Senate has wide leverage to make changes to any of its internal working documents. The mission of the ASUW Senate is read during each meeting and its goal is to represent all students at the University. If the Senate does not agree with this ruling, they have means to make changes to the rules within its procedural guides. If other students do not like the actions of the Senate, they are able to right the wrong through running for office or voting on their elected leaders. While these are possibilities, they are in no way required by this ruling, nor do they change the opinion of the Council. It is so ordered.

Context

In May 2021, the previous Director for Finance and Student Organization received an email from a student asking for advice on how to move forward with submitting a conference funding request to the SOFB. She was directed to wait until August, when the SOFB began meeting again. She attended the conference, the Hawaii University International Conferences, and paid $435 in registration fees. When Funding Board began meeting, they held a hearing for her and discovered that she did attend with a student org, but instead attended as an individual. This was brought to the Senate floor, and after some debate it was decided that we should table the issue until the JC rules on whether reimbursing an individual for a conference they did not attend with an affiliated student org would be allowable by our finance policy. Attached you will also find the request forms the student filled out.

Description of Conference

2021 Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, STEM/STEAM & Education Conference

How will attendees use the experience of attending this conference to benefit the campus community?
 Be specific.

It was a great experience to meet with peers, educators, and presenters from other universities throughout the nation and the world. We shared our research and I gained new insights in my field of study. It was great to experience the wealth of knowledge in different disciplines. This conference had broadened my horizons and will help me to share my experiences with my peers on campus, participate in events related to educational activities, e.g., help UW's ECTL (Ellbogen Center for Teaching and Learning) with the development and implementation of teaching development seminars for students and GTA's (Graduate Teaching Assistants) and engage in more progressive community work as a future social worker.

Will the attendees give an on-campus presentation upon returning from the conference?

I can if I'm asked. I have presented my research in the past to the Communication Department faculty and students.

OPEN FORUM

The new Vice President of Non-Traditional Students Council introduced himself to the senate tonight.

SPECIAL EVENT

Bryan Shader and Emma-Jane Alexander spoke to the senate tonight about UW's proposed plan for the School of Computing (SoC). The team that has been working together to design this plan has been primarily from the Math department at the University and consists of about 30 faculty. They first started their presentation by sharing what the vision for the SoC is. One of the main goals of the SoC is to help enable UW to become a national leader in education, engagement, and research. Through the school, they want to provide students with skills and resources they will be able to use throughout the rest of their lives and be able to apply to any fields. Another main purpose of the SoC is to nurture computing curiosity across disciplines and backgrounds to enhance interdisciplinary and to capitalize on emerging innovations. The vision of the SoC is to create a unique and inspirational SoC with national and impact and global reach. Emma and Bryan then discussed what type of students they hope to produce and why a SoC is necessary and applicable. Producing professionals who are fluent in computing and have strong digital competency is crucial in today's growing time of digital use. Computing skills can be applied in many fields such as agriculture, smart tourism, and fintech. Additionally, computing skills allows students to address societal skills such as human trafficking, water management, and medical implants. A SoC also benefits the state of Wyoming as not only will it supply a workforce prepared for the 21st century, but it also will attract big corporations. Next in their presentation, they discussed what the curricula will look like at the school and what degrees can be achieved. As of right now they are planning to provide either a BA or BS in Computing and a disciplinary minor in Computing. Characteristics of this program looks like experiential project based work with internship opportunities. The program will provide multiple pathways and aims to take what is learned quantitatively and have it applied to the individual. Characteristics of the minor could look like having multiple on-ramps, career enhancing computing courses, and badges and certificates in areas being explored. Additionally, they have the thought of offering classes that are shorter than the full semester and which would allow students to learn specific information in a quick amount of time. In the future, the school hopes to offer MA, MS, and PhD programs as well with host large job fairs with big companies present. Finally, they ended their presentation with a discussion about the timeline for the school and the expected cost. The hope is to have the school up and running and be welcoming the initial SoC class by Fall 2023. The expected budget is about nine million a year after five years. However, there are a lot of anticipated contributions to this cost such as grants, corporate partnerships, and philanthropy which should all help raise around 8 million dollars. In the long-term run, they want to be graduating 25-30 students a year as well as provide students across all disciplinarians on campus with necessary computational skills that can be used a lifetime.

COMMUNICATIONS

Executive Reports

President Swilling reported that most of his week has been spent onboarding and working with the newly hired Directors to develop goals and set priorities for this year. He is happy that ASUW is back up and running in full capacity. Additionally, he reported that city council has reached out to give a presentation regarding student issues and how to better integrate the community and the students. A survey will be sent out in the coming weeks regarding student issues and what students would like to see. Landlord tenet rights is one of these potential issues that would be addressed at the meeting. He also met with restorative justice coordinator to continue working on the reporting and investigation process which was brought to the senate's attention last week. In the coming weeks he is fine tuning endowment legislation. He also met with the coordinator from peer transfer mentorship program to discuss opportunities for transfer students to get involved in ASUW and what resources are available to them. He also announced Multicultural affairs is having a resource center night on Thursday September 2 from 6-8pm floor level of the Union. Finally, he has created an Ad-Hoc committee to discuss the restructuring at the University and the impact it will have on ASUW. Finally he said that if you signed up for the 2-13 process, you may be getting an email in the near future for these committees.

Chief of Staff Homer-Wambeam said "This week I have been moving forward with the onboarding process of our six new Directors, as well as working personally with each of the seven directors individually on beginning their specific duties. As a partnership with our Director of Marketing, the two of us organized and recorded an ASUW Podcast that will become a monthly tradition and an ASUW Town Hall with President Swilling and Vice President Anderson that will be a bi-weekly occurrence. Over the past week, I have also worked closely with Libby Thorson and Michelle DiPasquale from Green Dot to organize a Green Dot training and Mandatory Reporter Training for the Executive Branch. Tonight, I will also be giving a report on behalf of our Director of Diversity and Inclusion, Ivan Sapien, who could unfortunately not be here with us tonight. This week has consisted of Director Sapien meeting with Coordinators of multiple programs such as Green Dot and the Golten Fellow with student legal services, as well as the former Director of Diversity from the 108th administration, covering any gaps with transition and ensuring that connections made within the last year are not disbanded. Director Sapien plans to continue meeting with various program coordinators and arranging meetings with different groups around campus, o become more familiar with older, prominent resolutions tied to Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion. Director Sapien will also be working with DACA efforts on campus, updating information on the ASUW page, and planning new changes that will benefit Dreamers on campus. This concludes both my own report and the Director of Diversity and Inclusion's report."

Chief of Legislative Affairs Carrier said "I just want to start off by saying I hope everyone's school year is off to a great start and I am very excited to see what we can accomplish here in ASUW this year. As for what I have been working on in ASUW recently is I have been focusing a lot on learning my new position and continuing to prepare for it. I have been working on applying some updates to some of our working documents and have just been rereading thorough them and familiarizing myself with them some more. I have also been working on making sure our website is updated with all of these newer versions of our working documents, along with making sure our agendas and minutes are up to date. This weekend, I helped put on the senate retreat with Vice President Anderson. We covered a lot of information pertaining to how to write legislation, parliamentary procedure, and our working documents. If you were unable to attend the retreat or would like to go over some of these topics in more details, all of the PowerPoints we used can be found in the SharePoint under legislative branch, senate onboarding. I am also more than happy to sit down with you and go over them with you if you would like. With that, if you have not turned in your model release form yet, please do so! You can come drop it by the office and give it to either me or Vice President Anderson, and once you do so, we will give you some cool ASUW gear. Also, if you need another form, please let me know and I can provide you one. Last week I also met with Director Hacke and First-Year Senate Advisor Denney to discuss First-Year senate and So coming up in the future, as President Swilling mentioned in his report, I will be chairing the Ad-Hoc committee for the restructuring of the University and ASUW. I am very excited for this and I cannot wait to work with everyone and see what all we can accomplish. Also, on Monday I will be recording a podcast with Vice President Anderson and Director Clark over Senate and legislation. Next up, I also have set office hours now, I will for sure be in the office every Monday from 10-1:30, Wednesday 11-2, and Friday 10-1. I am also in the office often outside of these times too so honestly you can probably stop by anytime and I will probably be there. Additionally, my email signature has a calendly link to schedule meetings with me and if you would like to meet at a different time, feel free to shoot me a email and I am happy to work with you to find a time that works. With that said, I really want to reiterate I am here for you and I am really eager to work with you all and help you achieve your goals so please do not hesitate to reach out.”

Director of Diversity and Inclusion Sapien’s report was included with Chief of Staff’s Homer-Wambeams report.

Director of Finance and Student Organizations Reyes-Aguilar said “I have been working on getting in contact with Student Organizations that have emailed me throughout the summer and the first week of class in order to request funding. I have walked them through the process of submitting their forms and the processes of presenting to Funding Board. I received 4 funding request forms this week and I submitted them to the Funding Board, which met earlier this morning. Unfortunately we did not have quorum so we were not able to accept or deny any requests. These requests as well as recommendations will be brought up tonight during this meeting. I am also meeting with other student organizations this week to talk them through the Funding Board process as well. I have also been meeting with people, (Shelly Schaeff (former accountant), Gilbert (from Students Organizations and Entertainment), and CeeJay (former director of finance and student orgs)) to orient myself with UW Connect, Funding Board, the Finance Policy, and with my position in general. I also met with the Director of Financial Planning and Analysis (Brittany) to begin planning out Financial Wellness Events. We have already began to discuss financial wellness ideas for the year. Any suggestions are welcome and we begin to have our first event in early October. This week I will continue to work with Shelly, the funding board committee, and students organizations to continue to guide them through the process of requesting funds. I will began to reach out to student organizations to attend meetings and inform them of funding and ideas of how to increase their member sizes. I am going to continue to familiarize myself with the Finance Policy, and I will also continue to meet with Brittany to discuss budgets and put together our financial wellness events”

Senator Wilkins moved to suspend the Abernathy clause
Senator Engel-Cartie seconded
The motion passed via a voice vote.

Director of Financial Planning and Analysis Stadler said “ This past week, I have been working on reviewing the budget for FY 2022 to help our partners and programs, and discussed the goals for my position this school year. This next week I am working on planning for special projects by helping gather information for marketing content and reviewing the past application process to know if improvements need to made. Also, I will be working on writing a financial report with details about student fees to inform UW students about student fees.”

Director of Governmental and Community Affairs Brown said “During this past week, my focus was primarily on reaching out to contacts made with the previous DoGCA in the 108th administration. This includes the university's Director of Governmental Relations, city council stakeholders, WyASC contacts, the Office of Transfer Relations, to name a few. President Swilling and I began onboarding for city council issues, we met to discuss the Police Reform working group and the creation of a Laramie city Tenant/Landlord rights document for students. I attended Budget & Planning Committee to discuss the budget realignment for my position, during this portion of Senate tonight, I can speak to the realignment if desired. During my term, I will also be sitting on PID, working specifically with UMC in their restructuring under Director Hacke’s initiative to provide more support to our ASUW partner. This weekend, I enjoyed meeting with Senators during the retreat and ask that you stop by my office hours if you would to discuss any of my mentioned projects or broader issues relating to ASUW’s working relationship with the town of Laramie and state-wide. Earlier this evening, I attended the fifth week ward meetings with our Laramie Ward 2 (Mayor Paul Weaver, Rep. Jayne Pearce, Rep. Sharon Cumbie) and Ward 3 Representatives (Rep. Pat Gabriel, Rep. Erin O’Doherty). This was a great opportunity to introduce myself prior to the first City Council meeting I will attend, next Tuesday, and start to build a relationship with the council in the 109th administration. As President Swilling mentioned earlier, on October 14, we will be presenting to City Council. We are in the beginning stages of starting to strategize what this presentation and our objectives will be. We welcome any insight or comments from Senators and Ex-Officious today, please don’t hesitate to email or reach out to me. This week, I will primarily focus on two tasks. Scheduling a meeting with state representation, Rep. Cathy Connolly, a known ASUW and University of Wyoming ally on the legislature, to establish a working relationship, as well as extend invitations to work with ASUW in the fall and later during the budget session in the spring. Late next week, we will be sending out a survey to the student body relating to broad City of Laramie issues as well as some issues specific to a Tenant/Landlord Rights document. We are working with City Counciler Pearce, along other members on the council such as Mayor Weaver to develop and implement a Tenant/Landlords Right Document for our students as well as the broader Laramie community. This project has been in the making for a handful of administrations, and we plan to capitalize on the momentum from the city council look forward to putting it into writing during our term.”

Director of Marketing Clark said “First off, I would just like to thank you all for completing the model release forms and getting those to either myself or Chief Carrier. That makes my job much easier when trying to post on the ASUW social media. This past week my job has had a major focus on the social media side of things. The social media has included podcast, town hall, Senate Retreat, and the vaccine incentive program offered by the Albany County Vaccine Project and Iverson Memorial Hospital. Additionally, the Senate Story update was posted yesterday for the Students’ Right to Know. As I promoted the town hall, I also helped host the town hall with Chief Homer-Wambeam with a Zoom session and Facebook Livestream that did slightly fail but it is still posted on the Facebook page. Projects that are upcoming will be the next podcast episode, the town hall next week, working with and promoting the writing center as a campus resource, UMC promotion, and beginning the mask/COVID campaign we will be promoting through ASUW.”

Director of Partners, Programs, and Events Hacke said “I started off last week mostly trying to schedule all our strategic partners in accordance with our by laws when it comes to timing. I then did the same with all our crucial programs. I look forward to meeting with them over the next two weeks and working on their drafts of their strategic plans and preparing them for their presentations in front of PID. With these presentations and contacts I hope to hold ASUW and its partners and program to a higher standard and further integration. In accordance with this over the past week I’ve spent my time meeting with individuals getting further informed and going over all the partners and programs budget FY21 and FY22. I also talked to some of our Arts and Science Senators last weekend and I will be following up with the ideas we had as soon as Programming and Student Outreach has a meeting. And lastly I want to thank everyone who signed up for tabling at involvement fest. We got over 14 signatures for FYS and some possible future full senators. I will send updates about possible venue changes tomorrow morning to those who have signed up.”

Director of Wellness and Sustainability McLean said “this week I have been getting settled into my new position and as such have been meeting and communicating with students, staff, faculty, and organizations I will be working with in the coming year.

Director of Diversity and Inclusion Sapien and I met with UW Law School Golten Fellow, Martha Jenkins, regarding how to better help DACA recipients in our UW community. This week Director of Marketing Clark and I began working together on a social media campaign to promote COVID safety here on campus. Additionally, I am working with Michelle Dipasquale of Green Dot and the Dean of Students office to get contraception and sexual education materials distributed across campus. These are all ongoing projects that I am excited to keep you all updated on. This upcoming week I will be meeting with the sustainability coalition and the food insecurity taskforce to outline our goals and our relationship for the year. I will also work with Vice President Anderson in organizing the Safety and Wellness committee up and running so keep an eye out for that”.

Vice President Anderson said “Thank you all for coming tonight, most of my report will be reminders this evening. First, I will be sending around two sign-up sheets, one for the ASUW Homecoming Committee and one for the ASUW Safety and Wellness Committee. If you are interested in serving on one of these committees please write your name legibly and you will be contacted later this week. Bear in mind that if not enough senators sign up, people will be assigned to these committees as their composition is mandated in our by laws. Next, I would like to reiterate the importance of attending all of your committee meetings and actively working with your committee’s chair to make things run more smoothly for them. Committees are where the bulk of ASUW Senate’s work is done, and missing a committee meeting does count as half of an absence (of which you are allowed 3). I would like to thank everyone who attended the senate retreat last Saturday, I hope that it was helpful and engaging. I would like to reiterate a few points I made at the retreat: I am always happy to meet with you one on one or answer your questions over email, so please don’t ever hesitate to reach out to me to set up a meeting or simply ask a question. If you have not yet submitted your model release form, you need to do so as soon as possible. You will not be able to receive your parliamentary procedure handbook, padfolio, or ASUW Jacket until you do so. You can drop those off at any time in the ASUW office. If you need a model release form, you can email Chief of Legislative Affairs Carrier or stop by the ASUW Office. Finally, Chief of Legislative Affairs will/has circulated the relevant information regarding the funding board requests that will be brought before senate tonight. Please refer to these documents when we are addressing these items under new business.

Advisor Wheeler reported that he met with eight executives this past week and that he has three more meeting this week. He also reported that there will be interviews for the project coordinator position and that they hope they will be able to provide a job offer next week. First-Year Senate apps are open and close Sept 5. Accountant Shaef and him met with the UMC Co-chairs to help with their onboarding process.

Addendum D

Brief

Dear Council Members,

My name is Anastasiia Corley. I am a second-year Master of Social Work student and a Graduate Assistant. Being originally from Ukraine, it was a great honor to represent the University of Wyoming at the 2021 Arts, Humanities, Social Sciences, STEM/STEAM & Education Conference in Hawaii and share my research.

My quantitative research study is focused on investigating the relationships between communication apprehension (CA), fear of negative evaluation (FNE) on Instagram, perceived ability to present one's true self on Instagram, and the frequency of using selfies on Instagram. A self-report questionnaire was completed by one hundred and fifty-four Instagram users online. The findings suggest that Instagram and selfies could potentially help high CA people communicate with others.

This was a versatile conference that covered topics in various educational disciplines. I was able to meet many wonderful students and professionals there. The sessions that I attended helped to expand my knowledge and promoted thinking outside the box. For instance, one presentation was on incorporating gaming into classroom learning in order to create new and relatively inexpensive ways to encourage group and authentic learning for each student. Other great sessions that I enjoyed were touching subjects of Afrofuturism in literature, systemic racism and sexism prevalence in classical music, and application of Universal Design of Inclusion (UDI) to improve outcomes for all students.

This experience would not be possible without generous donors at the social work department and campus organizations like ASUW. ASUW has helped student development and growth by promoting their involvement and collaboration through participating in conferences and other activities.

Thank you for your consideration. I appreciate your help, hard work, and dedication to student success.

Sincerely,

Anastasiia Corley
