To ASUW's Creative Project Coordinator Craft,

Many students' journeys in ASUW begin in the First-Year Senate. After my time in the program last year, I believe that the reason I am now able to sufficiently represent students in the ASUW Senate is because I had a great onboarding and the core of that being successful was the person who spent their time primarily on advising the program's body. For that, I have to extend a great gratitude of thanks to our spectacular Project Coordinator, Cameron.

Your knowledge of various things that finds its way to being useful constantly is unmatched. If someone is looking for a conversation on a topic outside of ASUW, you have a topic that will get anyone interested. Not to mention the crafty title of life stories you have "Cameron Lore." Even when I have been beyond stressed and tired these conversations always helped light up my day and made getting used to college life wonderful.

Since my time began in ASUW, you have been a wonderful person and have advised many students in the two administrations you have been involved in. I am forever grateful for the effort you poured into my experience in the First-Year Senate program. Now watching the new generation of First Year Senators, I am seeing how successful you and the FYS Advisor are at making the program excel.

I know that this is not a goodbye, but I will admit it will be strange to walk into the office and not see the light in your office on.

Lastly, if there is ever a fish in your water bottle again, please throw it out, washing it 5 times is not going to make the situation seem any less fishy!

Sincerely,

Clay Keasling

Cameron,

I don't always feel worthy. I don't always feel good enough. But you make me second guess my negative presumptions. Thank you for uplifting me, holding me accountable, elevating the standard I aspire to, and being a mentor.

First-Year Senators look up to you not because you value the organization first, but because you value the people. You have taught me the merit of relationship building. Because of you, I have learned the importance of relationships, of team building, and leading by example. I could not be the advisor I am without you. I could not be the man I am without you. Thank you for your leadership, your mentorship, but most importantly – your friendship.

“And in the end, the love you take is equal to the love you make.”

Cameron,

With this being the best FYS in Wyoming history, it could not have been made possible without you. You will be dearly missed, and I want to thank you for all of your guidance and support throughout my first year here at Wyoming. You have been a helping hand with answering my questions and helping me learn about how the Senate works.

I wish you the best in your new job and that you make an impact on those around you just like you did here. Even though I have known you for a short time, it is a bittersweet goodbye in which I will miss seeing you every week, but your impact with your new job will be great.

Project Coordinator Craft,

I think I speak, or write, for everyone when I say that you will be dearly missed in First-Year Senate and ASUW. Your guidance has been invaluable to everyone here at ASUW. From my personal experience, I could not have gotten through my role and responsibilities as a first-year senator without your advice and counsel, let alone my role as treasurer and chair of TSOC. I am sure I am not the only one with this sentiment, as you have been a great guide on every single one of our journeys in student government. I will miss the weekly meetings we had, your awkward yet humorous jokes, and your great advice when it came time to make decisions.

Although we are all saddened by your departure, we all wish you the best in your new endeavor. We all know that you will be great and have exceptional success in your new role. The Student and Success and Graduation team are fortunate to have you! Thank you for everything you have done here at ASUW and for us personally, and good luck in your new adventure!

Cameron,

I have to thank you for all the time you've invested in ASUW, FYS, and most importantly, the people involved. I truly cannot thank you enough for the time you've spent chatting with me about both random life stories and more serious matters. I will miss your charm, quick wit, and your many, many, lore drops.

I wish you the best in all your future endeavors and if you ever need anything or just want to chat, by all means shoot me a message!

Dear Cameron,

I just want to say thank you for all your help this year. Between UMC and FYS, you've helped a lot. You always gave sage advice and helped a divided and at times polarized FYS and ASUW work together. That's a big accomplishment. Also, it means a lot to me that you care about the people we are, not just the roles we fill. You worked to interact with us as people before employees and I appreciate that. Your effort to get to know us and your storytelling always brightened my day. I hope you have a fantastic time at your new job!

Thank you,

Cameron,

How do you say thank you to someone who has done so much for you? That's what I keep asking myself when I try to write this letter. I find it so hard because you have helped me learn and grow in so many ways that I can't even see right now. My time as FYS advisor helped me grow up in a lot of ways I didn't know I needed to and allowed me to find work that was fulfilling. Our meetings where we planned out the week's chaos were both necessary comedic reliefs during a tumultuous time, but also deep educational in an academic sense, I learned the word pedagogy, so now people will know I went to college. I'm very happy we have stayed connected even after I departed ASUW and hope we will stay that way once you leave as well.

Now I'm to the part of the letter where I can say that I know, and you know that you're gonna kill it after ASUW. The passion and force you put into your work will be appreciated anywhere you go. I can empathize with the bittersweetness that can come from leaving something that has become your life to a certain extent, but I can promise you the grass really is greener on the other side. I hope you always look back on ASUW and know you did a lot of good and impacted so many people's lives for the better. I can't wait to see what's next.

Stay well and in touch,

Tanner Ewalt
