

ANNIE'S PROJECT
EMPOWERING WOMEN IN AGRICULTURE

Annie's Project is an educational program dedicated to strengthening women's roles in agriculture. The program is designed to help inform farm and ranch women about topics in business and life management and to help them build connections to their peers in the community.

Annie's Project has been successfully conducted in over 30 states reaching 12,000 women. It came to Wyoming in 2011 and has been offered more than 21 times.

Participants are women with a passion for agriculture. Annie's Project is a multi-session course that covers the five areas of agricultural risk: financial, human resources, legal, marketing and production. Each class session might have three brief presentations intermixed with discussions based on the participants' insights and questions. About a third of each program is dedicated to discussion. In this way the program provides an opportunity to learn from agricultural professionals and interact with other women in similar situations.
