One of the hardest things about starting college was embracing the new and unknown. For a while, I kept to myself and talked to friends from home almost every night. Once I embraced new friendships as well as clubs and student organizations on campus, I realized I had a new home and a great community."

Useful Apps
FOR STUDENT SUCCESS

So you have your dorm room all set up, you have your backpack, you even got your textbooks from the University Store. Think you’re ready to start the semester? Unless you have these Android or Apple apps on your cell phone, you may not be completely prepared. Pro-Tip: Put all of these apps into the same folder for easy access.

Penji: Free Tutoring at UW
Successful students use tutoring. Penji is how students make [free] tutoring appointments with UW tutors in dozens of classes in multiple centers across campus. After downloading the app, sign in with your UWYO credentials. After you create a profile, you can see the various centers and free tutoring at UW. Contact stepatuw@uwyo.edu with issues.

Canvas: Access WyoCourses
Nearly all of your classes will be on Canvas. Students can: view grades and course content, submit assignments, keep track of course work with to do list and calendar, send and receive messages, post to discussions, watch videos, take quizzes, receive push notifications for new grades and course updates, and much more. Contact wyocourses@uwyo.edu with issues
1. Select “Find my School”
2. Enter University of Wyoming
3. Sign in with UWYO credentials

Navigate: Advising and Beyond
Navigate Student lets you know how and when to get important things done. Meet with your advisor, resolve a problem, view class schedule, create reminders for yourself, find things on campus, and more. To get started, select UW from the dropdown menu and log in with your UWYO Credentials. You will need to complete an intake survey before proceeding.

Navigating the ROOMMATE RELATIONSHIP

Experiences with roommates range from the start of a “best friends forever” relationship to friction that leads to finding new roommates before the first semester ends. The reality is more often in the middle. Our goal is to help you make the right steps to building a positive relationship, the type of bond that allows you to live peaceably for a year -- and hopefully you can build a lasting friendship that is a positive, memorable part of your college experience.

HOW TO GET ALONG WITH YOUR COLLEGE ROOMMATE

From Campus Explorer’s article, “How to Get Along with Your College Roommate”

Every once in a while, you hear a story about two randomly matched roommates who become best friends. Beating all the odds, they find miles of common ground, discover that they’re actually a lot alike, and become extremely close throughout college. It’s a nice story, but it sounds like something you’d see on an after-school special.

Realistically, you’re likely to encounter some tension and even conflict with your roommate. Many roommates do become friends, but what if you can’t get along with yours? Don’t despair -- you can still overcome your differences and have a healthy relationship with your roommate.

First Impressions Matter

Like it or not, people are prone to making snap judgments. Whatever impression you give of yourself when you meet your new roommate is likely to stick with him or her, whether it’s accurate or not.

Even if you’re still a little grumpy from moving in, try to be as amiable and positive as you can through the first few days. Make eye contact, be polite and show an interest in getting to know your new roommate. If he or she likes you right off the bat, they’ll be more likely to respect your needs and boundaries later on.

Roommate Rules and Boundaries

As you and your roommate get to know each other, make sure you set some boundaries. Ask him or her about their needs and experiences in creating a workable living environment, then share your needs. Calmly and politely explain your ideal living arrangements while also listening to your roommate’s needs.

It’s crucial to get this out of the way early. The longer you wait, the more you risk a possible conflict due to clashing lifestyles. Remember, compromise is essential here. You probably won't get everything you want, and neither will your roommate, but the important thing is to create a comfortable, healthy living environment for both of you.
OPEN COMMUNICATION:
The Key to Successful Roommate Relationships

Talk to your roommate. We can’t stress this enough. Don’t avoid conversations because you’re afraid that they might be awkward. This doesn’t mean you have to be best buds who share everything, but if your roommate does something inappropriate, you should let him know. If you let problems pile up without addressing them, the relationship will start to sour. Address issues as they come up, and you’ll be able to defuse them more easily.

Even in the worst roommate situations, there’s always a way to resolve the conflict. Sometimes this could mean peer mediation to work through the problems. Or it may mean switching roommates.

Whatever the end result, it’s important to remember that there’s always help. If you’ve tried everything and can’t get through to your roommate, try talking to your resident adviser (RA). Your RA will listen to both sides of the conflict and help you and your roommate find a reasonable solution. If you find your roommate conflicts still aren’t resolved, speak to the residence coordinator for your building.

In your first weeks at UW, you and your roommate will be tasked with completing a roommate agreement. A copy of the agreement is on the following pages for you to complete.

RESIDENCE HALL Etiquette

Even if you opted for a single room and have no roommate, you have more than a dozen neighbors living in close quarters. Here are some tips for having a peaceful residence hall floor experience. Always consult the Housing, Dining, & Residence Life website (uwyo.edu/living/) for most up-to-date guidelines and requirements with regards to living in the residence halls and issues surrounding From Campus Explorer’s article, “How to Get Along with Your College Roommate”

RESPECT QUIET HOUR RULES.
Hall Quiet Hours are from 10pm to 8am Sunday through Thursday, and 12am to 8am on Friday and Saturday nights.

YOU ARE SHARING BATHROOM SPACE.
Clean up after yourself (don’t leave hair in the drain) and don’t leave anything in the bathroom.

COMMUNICATE
Address conflict or concerns early, before they become bigger issues. Talk to your RA if you aren’t sure how to broach the subject yourself. Be civil in when you bring up conflicts with your floormates. It’s crucial to get this out of the way early. The longer you wait, the more you risk a possible conflict due to clashing lifestyles. Remember, compromise is essential here. You probably won’t get everything you want, and neither will your floormate, but the important thing is to create a comfortable, healthy living environment for all of you.

Ask yourself – am I being a good neighbor? Would I want to live with me?

DEVELOP GOOD LAUNDRY HABITS.
• Set a specific day/time every week when you will do your laundry (and yes, you should do your laundry every week).
• Know the “rush hours”
• Budget your time (you don’t want to start a load of laundry then have to rush to class)
• Set a timer on your phone so you don’t forget to return to your laundry
• Doing laundry is no one’s favorite chore. Be courteous to others (e.g. don’t dump someone’s wet laundry on the floor!)
• If you have issues with your laundry card swipe (WyoOne card) or a laundry machine not working, tell your residence hall desk
• Washing machines should only be filled ¾ of the way full. If you stuff a washing machine all the way full it will probably lock up, then you have to wait until it manually unlocks (about 10 minutes) and you will still have to rewash your clothes (if the machine locks it won’t clean anything)
• Laundry Pods do not fully dissolve in the washing machines. Use liquid high efficiency detergent in the washing machines otherwise your clothes will not get cleaned very well.

Online Course SUCCESS TIPS

Some of your coursework might be online, so here are some strategies to keep in mind.

Adapted from University of Michigan Center for Academic Innovation

1. Stay Organized

Here are some things you might want to keep track of for each class:

- What are the in-person parts of this course? (lecture, lab, etc)
- Where can you find it or how do you access it? (live-stream, lecture capture, etc)
- Is it at a specific time (synchronous) or can you watch it anytime (asynchronous)?

Keep track of assignments.

- What are the due dates?
- How will you submit assignments?
- Are any quizzes or exams being offered virtually?

What should you do if you need help?

- Is your course offering virtual office hours? When and on what platform?
- Is there an online forum for asking questions?

One example of a way you could keep track:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Class 1</th>
<th>Class 2</th>
<th>Class 3</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Important Dates</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Important Links</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

2. Avoid Multitasking

Many people think they can do multiple things at once, but research shows us that only about 2% of the population can multitask. Even if you feel like you’re multitasking, you’re probably not... really, you’re switching between tasks very quickly (some call this “micro-tasking”).

What to do instead:

- Consider the Magic of Monotasking. (www.huffpost.com/entry/the-magic-of-monotasking_b_9239892)
- Try the “pomodoro method” to help you focus for 25- or 50-minute periods, and then reward yourself with a 5- and 10-minute break. (tomato-timer.com)

3. Make the most of video lectures

- Stick to the instructor’s schedule as much as you can.
- Find out how to ask questions.
- Is there a chat feature? Threaded discussion?
- Close distracting tabs and apps. (See #2 above.)
- Take notes as if you were there in person.
- Watch recordings at normal speed.

Research shows that playback speed of 1.5x can lower your retention and can result in lower scores on assessments. Faster playback speeds are worse for complex, multi-step material (which most of your lectures probably are).
4. Be considerate on video calls

Video conference etiquette adapted from blog.zoom.us/wordpress/2013/08/20/video-conference-etiquette/.

- Use your UW Pro Zoom account – all UW students have access to a free pro Zoom account. Access the account through WyoWeb (wyoweb.uwyo.edu) and click on the Zoom button.
- Project the right image. Dress as you would for an in-person meeting. Adjust lighting so you are easily seen. Move distracting background items (such as a pile of old laundry). Avoid yawning or distracting exaggerated motions.
- Practice speaking to the camera and not the screen.
- Utilize the mute button. Unless you are actively speaking, you should keep your mute button on. However, you should still actively participate in class discussions. Think of questions you want to ask and jot them down, or join in when a question has been thrown out.
- Reduce eating and drinking during calls.

Understanding COURSE FORMATS

Your instructor may choose a variety of design options for your coursework. Here are some formats and important terms that may come up.

ASYNCHRONOUS

All of your lectures, assignments, activities, discussions, quizzes and exams are placed in modules. Modules are like storage bins in the Canvas learning system we call WyoCourses. Asynchronous courses can be completed on your own time rather than setting aside time like you would for face-to-face lectures. Example: You access all elements of the course at your own convenience according to deadlines set by your professor.

SYNCHRONOUS ONLINE (hybrid)

You have no in-person face-to-face elements, but you need to reserve time each week for online work that occurs at the same time as your classmates. These synchronous activities may include lectures, study sessions, active learning, or discussion. Quizzes and exams are on WyoCourses. Example: You access lectures and other resources online at your own convenience, but you set aside time each week to attend classes where you interact with other students and your professor.

ASYNCHRONOUS CONTENT WITH FACE-TO-FACE ACTIVITIES (flipped)

You view the recorded lectures online during a time that works for you, but then you will attend face-to-face (in-person or online) classroom sessions where you will interact with what you learned through activities, such as group discussions, problem solving activities, online labs, etc. Example: You watch short recorded lectures each week on your own prior to coming to class. Depending on your professor, class may be in-person or offered synchronously online. During those sessions, you interact with the material that you learned on your own time.

YOU CHOOSE: FACE-TO-FACE, ZOOM OR ASYNCHRONOUS (HyFlex)

Your professor leaves the course design up to you. Class sessions are offered in a classroom for those who prefer face-to-face. Those sessions are recorded live on Zoom for those who prefer a synchronous format, and uploaded as videos for those who prefer an asynchronous format. You may be asked to voice your preferred course method early in the semester. Example: Some classmates go in person to each lecture, others view the lecture at home as the professor delivers it, and others watch the lecture videos at a time that is convenient for them.
CREATING a BUDGET as you START COLLEGE

From “College Budget Template: Keep Track of Your School Expenses.” (mint.com)

College textbooks, a night out with buddies, furnishing your room - the expenses during your college years can quickly and easily burn a hole through your bank account in no time if you don’t have a detailed college budget set up. No one enjoys counting pennies and controlling spending, but budgeting is a necessary part of financial health. Your college years in particular are the perfect time to learn how to budget properly before real adult life kicks in.

Don’t think you need to maintain a budget? Here are some reasons why it’s important to have one set up now, using a college budget template, as you start your first year of college.

Your Family Isn’t Watching Over Your Shoulder

While your parents may have had a dominant handle over your expenditures while you were living at home, you don’t have this type of supervision when you’re off on your own. Many times this financial freedom can get the best of college students, who end up finding themselves tempted by the myriad of items that are available to buy. Without mom or dad there to say “no,” you could find yourself with mounting debt. Having a budget is a responsible step towards adulthood and maturity that helps you take control of your spending.

Having a budget in place can help you delegate every dollar you make.

Your Funds Are Probably Limited in College

Most college students don’t exactly have a ton of cash to work with, which makes the art of budgeting even more crucial. No matter where the funds are coming from - mom and dad, a part-time job, or even a scholarship or award - you’ll most likely have to be savvy and learn how to stretch your dollar. Money has a tendency to be spent on ‘wants’ rather than ‘needs’ when no budget exists (more in the November chapter!). Having a budget allows you to see if whatever money is coming in is adequately covering your expenses, or if you have to look for more ways to supplement your income, or lower your spending if possible.

Managing Your Money

Having a budget on a detailed spreadsheet with the help of a college budget template allows you to better control your money. It will show you where your money needs to go, including your savings, expenses, and extra spending money. This tool will also provide you with a reference to identify what your financial position is at the end of each month. For instance, if you’ve allotted $100 to be spent on entertainment, but notice that all the receipts you’ve kept that month total $150, you know you need to cut back $50 from your entertainment expenditures.
What Should You Include in Your Budget?

A budget can be as detailed as it needs to be for you. When it comes to your expenditures, don't leave anything out. Include items such as textbooks, tuition, room and board, student loans, transportation, groceries, entertainment, and other miscellaneous items. When it comes to your income, make sure to include anything on top of your part-time job that may bring money in, including awards, allowance from parents, and so forth. At the end of the month, compare the difference between the two, which will tell you whether your income covers your expenses, or whether you're ending up in the red.

SHORT & LONG TERM GOALS

Freshmen enter college with a range of real world experiences, from working full-time to never having done laundry to only having the culinary skills to make instant Ramen. Being independent is more about a mindset than an actual skill set. You can learn to do anything, from Calculus to making marinara from scratch if you are willing to own that you are responsible for learning to do it. This will apply to a range of tasks in the next four years, spanning from paying bills to academics.

Famous author, Annie Dillard, once said, “How we spend our days is how we spend our lives.” This is an important mantra as you move through college. Your college degree is not a golden ticket to a new life; rather, you spend four years working towards a degree, and those four years teach you how to live.

I want to quote the advice I received during my freshman orientation: “when you are in a new town, school, or place in life, sometimes the best thing you can do is show up. Show up and be open and willing to try new things.” Show up for class, for clubs, and for your friends. Remember that people here care about you, whether it’s the student next door in the dorms or your English 1010 professor. Make a great freshman year for yourself!

-Peyton Lunzer

Pre-Semester REFLECTION

Answer the following questions considering how you want to make a new home and how that will make your time at the University of Wyoming. Not only will this help you settle into the semester, some research shows that students who write down goals are more likely to overcome obstacles and to achieve their dreams.

Jot down five goals for your freshman year:

Now write down five “two-year” goals:

Write down five “five-year” goals:

Write down five “ten-year” goals:
Finally, write a paragraph that considers how you want your life at the University of Wyoming to look, and what steps you can take this fall to work toward achieving your short term and long term goals.

“Partying is a part of the college experience for many, but don’t let it be your only college experience. It’s fun. It’s a great way to socialize, but remember why you are here and what will count four years down the road. You can go out, have a good time, and still get to bed early enough to stay on track. Set smart boundaries, watch out for yourself and your friends, make time for fun and your studies, and you will have a well-rounded and amazing college experience.”

Mary Grace Bedwell, UW Student
