New Opportunities

Call Title:	Financial Support for Third Parties to Fund Research Projects (Nigeria)
Programme:	TRIAL International
Objective:	The Corporate Accountability Initiative is inviting applications for a sub-grant to fund research projects that will lead to the publication and launch of a national study on corporate accountability mechanisms for international crimes in Nigeria.
Eligible Activities:	The focus areas and objectives of the FSTP sub-grant include promoting accountability of corporate actors across four high-risk sectors—extractive, forestry, agricultural, and financial industries—and private security providers for serious human rights and environmental violations, as well as advocating for better regulations, measures, and processes in the use of private security providers at sectoral, national, regional, and international levels. The FSTP sub-granting system is designed to support local actors in Nigeria and build their capacity while enabling civil society organisations to address issues of impunity and promote better-tailored regulations, taking into account the perspectives of affected communities and various stakeholders. Applications should contribute to the broader objective of enhancing accountability across high-risk industry value chains of corporate actors and linked private security providers, while bolstering compliance with domestic, regional, and international regulations. Each project funded under this sub-grant will receive €25,000, and applicants may submit proposals to multiple CAI-managed FSTPs, with the total amount awarded to a single applicant capped at €60,000. Project implementation must be between three and twelve months in duration.
Eligible Applicants:	Eligible applicants include registered Civil Society Organizations, Non-Governmental Organizations, universities, think tanks, or other non-profit entities that are legally registered in Nigeria, have been operational for at least three years, and have the capacity to conduct independent and collaborative research. Applicants should have experience in drafting policy, legal papers, briefings, or reports, preferably in human rights, corporate accountability, or private security regulations, and maintain a functional accounting and bookkeeping system to accurately record and report all project-related financial transactions.
Total Budget:	€100,000
Deadline:	02/04/2026

Call Title:	ENTREPRENEURSHIP SUPPORT ORGANISATIONS (ESOS)
Programme:	Climate KIC
Objective:	The Circular Economy Innovation Cluster (CEIC) is a multi-year programme led by Climate KIC and partners GrowthAfrica (Nairobi, Kenya) and SecondMuse (Bengaluru, India) and funded by IKEA Foundation. They are inviting Entrepreneurship Support Organisations (ESOs) in Bengaluru, India, and Nairobi, Kenya, to apply for the Circular Economy & Social Impact Programme for ESOs and the opportunity to design and run their own circular economy programme for entrepreneurs.

Eligible Activities:	Selected organisations will join the Circular Economy & Social Impact Masterclasses running between late April and July 2026. The masterclasses are designed to equip your organisation with the knowledge, tools, and connections to integrate circular economy and social inclusion into your entrepreneurial work. The learning modules draw on Climate KIC's technical expertise and three years of hands-on experience supporting circular ventures in both ecosystems between 2023 and 2025. Actions must take place in India and Kenya.
Eligible Applicants:	They accept applications from organisations (both for profit and non-profit), that actively support ventures and entrepreneurs through support programmes such as incubators and accelerators.
Total Budget: €100,000
Deadline: 06/04/2026

Call Title:	VivaTech Startup Challenge to Support European Tech Alternatives
Programme:	VivaTech
Objective:	The VivaTech is inviting B2B startups to apply for a challenge aimed at supporting the development of European tech alternatives to US companies. The challenge focuses on startups positioning themselves as European alternatives in cloud infrastructure, AI tools, SaaS platforms, and data services, emphasizing European values such as data sovereignty, transparency, and independence. Key priorities include strong European positioning, market traction with paying customers, sovereignty fit with European infrastructure, scalability potential, and a founding team with the vision to become a European category leader.
Eligible Activities:	The challenge targets B2B startups with fewer than 50 employees that have a product in production with paying customers, a clear value proposition as a European alternative, cloud-native architecture ready to scale, current cloud spend of at least €1,000 per month, and ambition to become a category leader in Europe. Startups can be from any sector, provided that using European sovereign cloud strengthens their market positioning. The program emphasizes infrastructure that aligns with European values, ensuring that startups can compete effectively against US tech giants while maintaining independence and transparency. Startups will also receive mentorship and opportunities to connect with European enterprises seeking alternatives to US-based solutions. This challenge provides a unique platform for emerging European tech companies to showcase their products, expand their market presence, and become trusted European alternatives in their respective categories.

Eligible Applicants:	Applicants must be incorporated less than eight years ago and have fewer than 100 employees. Selected startups will gain support to strengthen their European positioning through sovereign cloud infrastructure, enhancing credibility and customer trust while enabling growth.
Total Budget:	€Not available
Deadline:	13/04/2026

Call Title:	Citizen Security Research Initiative
Programme:	Innovations for Poverty Action (IPA)
Objective:	The Citizen Security Research Initiative (CSRI) invites proposals for rigorous research projects aimed at generating actionable evidence to inform policies and programs that build safer communities and strengthen justice and law enforcement systems. The initiative prioritizes studies that counter organized crime, combat drug trafficking and production, prevent crime and violence, and strengthen law enforcement and criminal justice institutions.
Eligible Activities:	CSRI supports a range of project types tailored to different stages of research. Pilot studies are designed to lay the groundwork for future full impact evaluations, including activities such as A/B testing, feasibility studies, refining measurement approaches, or piloting survey instruments, with awards up to $75,000. Full impact evaluation studies rigorously assess the causal effects of interventions, programs, or policies and require committed implementing partners, well-defined research designs, and statistical power estimates, with funding up to $400,000. Infrastructure support and public goods creation focus on building datasets, measurement strategies, or analytical tools that serve multiple research projects, supporting the broader research community and policy stakeholders, with awards up to $250,000. Foundational and contextual research builds empirical or conceptual understanding of emerging or understudied issues, using qualitative, quantitative, or mixed-method approaches to map actors, dynamics, and trends, with grants up to $75,000. Funding is restricted to research-related costs such as data collection and analysis, dissemination, and research staff time, including support for research assistants and managers. Principal investigators may request supplemental salary support if their institutional salary does not fully cover their time. Implementation or operational costs for interventions, services, or programs are not eligible.
Eligible Applicants:	Eligible researchers must be primarily affiliated with a university and either hold a PhD or be actively pursuing one, with demonstrated experience conducting field research and applying impact evaluation methods in relevant sectors. In exceptional cases, researchers from recognized non-university research institutions may apply if they demonstrate equivalent standards of academic rigor and research capacity. Proposals must include implementing partners such as civil society organizations, government entities, or multilateral organizations, committed to collaboration on the study. Each application must designate one organization to receive and manage subaward funds, as IPA cannot subaward to individuals.

Total Budget: €500,000

Call Title:	CREATING OPPORTUNITIES THROUGH MARKET DEVELOPMENT IN SPORTS AND DIGITAL SKILLS
Programme:	U.S. Mission to Kazakhstan
Objective:	The U.S. Mission to Kazakhstan announces an open competition to implement a youth leadership camp in summer 2026, exclusively targeting FLEX program alternates, highly qualified exchange program applicants not selected as finalists due to limited spaces. The camp will provide up to 50 FLEX alternates with an intensive entrepreneurship and job skills-building experience, focusing on U.S. best practices, American excellence, and leadership development. Themes will include U.S. entrepreneurship case studies, business project design, public speaking in English, and financial literacy. U.S. speakers will be invited as trainers, and FLEX alumni will serve as mentors.

Eligible Activities:	In recognition of Freedom250 – the 2026 commemoration of the United States’ founding – this program will deepen participants’ understanding of American values of innovation, entrepreneurship, and opportunity, equipping them with career skills to champion U.S.-Kazakhstan economic cooperation and partnerships with American businesses as they emerge as future leaders. The most active participants will have the opportunity to implement local entrepreneurship projects after the camp. Proposals that leverage U.S. Department of State resources such as RELO, American Spaces, Makerspaces, and EducationUSA will be given preference. The camp will extend the impact of FLEX to wider audiences in Kazakhstan and develop a new cadre of future leaders to support long-term U.S.-Kazakhstan cooperation. Actions must take place in Kazakhstan.
Eligible Applicants:	The following organizations are eligible to apply: Not-for-profit organizations, including think tanks and civil society/non-governmental organizations, Public and private educational institutions, Public International Organizations and Governmental institutions.

Call Title:	Ray of Hope Accelerator Program
Programme: The Biomimicry Institute
Objective:	The Biomimicry Institute is inviting applications to support early-stage, nature-inspired startups that develop innovative solutions to address the world's most pressing environmental challenges.
Eligible Activities:	The main focus areas of the program include chemistry and materials, built environment, manufacturing and advanced robotics, renewable energy, transportation and mobility, food and agriculture, conservation and remediation, life sciences and medtech, biotechnology, consumer products, cosmetics, textiles, water, BlueTech, and climate tech. The program prioritizes startups that integrate nature-inspired solutions by drawing on biological principles, ecological relationships, or other strategies from the natural world to solve environmental problems. Selected startups receive a non-dilutive grant of $15,000 to support their growth, though this amount may be subject to change. Participants join the accelerator's global ecosystem, gaining ongoing access to networks, resources, corporate partnerships, investor connections, and opportunities to support incoming cohorts as alumni. The program evaluates each application holistically to ensure a strong fit with the mission of scaling systemic, nature-inspired solutions to environmental challenges.
Eligible Applicants:	Startups accepted into the program typically operate at the Pre-Seed, Seed, or Series A stages and have a working prototype with Technology Readiness Level 4 or higher. Eligible applicants have generally secured between $250,000 and $5 million in prior funding, though exceptions are considered. Startups must be legally established with two or more full-time team members, and at least one founder or executive team member must actively participate in the program, submit deliverables, and attend the mandatory four-day nature retreat.

Call Title:	Global DPI Insights Community Fund
Programme:	Center for Financial Inclusion
Objective:	The Center for Financial Inclusion is inviting applications for its Global DPI Insights Community Fund to support innovative research projects that advance their collective understanding of how to design and implement DPI responsibly. The initiative prioritizes research focused on financial sustainability, implementation and design tradeoffs, and locally grounded evidence for digital public infrastructure systems. It also seeks studies that map gaps in the design and implementation of DPI systems and analyze potential solutions, including issues related to consumer protection, access, and market competition.
Eligible Activities:	The program encourages research anchored in specific countries or regions rather than a universal global lens, with particular relevance to inclusive and responsible financial systems. The Global DPI Insights Community will award a series of research grants of up to USD $50,000 each to support new research exploring how DPI systems are evolving across diverse contexts. Applicants must submit a proposal that includes the name of the organization or independent researchers responsible for the project, along with a note of up to 1,000 words describing the research questions, the broader significance of the project for DPI insights, and how the proposed work aligns with the priorities of the grant. The proposal should also briefly outline the research design and methodology. In addition, applicants must provide information about the project team, including their backgrounds and affiliations, as well as an anticipated timeline for project completion and a high-level budget in US dollars. The application must also include the full legal name and address of the intended grantee or award recipient and each researcher involved in the project. Finalists will later be invited to provide a detailed budget and additional information during the next phase of the selection process.
Eligible Applicants:	The opportunity is open to research institutions, independent researchers, and collaborative partnerships, with strong encouragement for partnerships that include local stakeholders. Through these grants, they aim to generate practical and evidence-based insights that help policymakers, researchers, and stakeholders understand and navigate the complex tradeoffs involved in designing and implementing DPI systems.

Total Budget: €100,000
Deadline: 30/04/2026
