New Opportunities

Call Title:	RELOAD3: PUBLIC CALLS FOR CIVIL SOCIETY ORGANIZATIONS IN 5 CITIES AND MUNICIPALITIES
Programme:	UNDP
Objective:	With the support of the European Union and in partnership with the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), Aranđelovac, Vranje, Vrnjačka Banja, Čuprija, and Šabac have announced public calls for the financing of projects implemented by civil society organizations (CSOs) that can contribute to the development goals of these cities and municipalities. The public calls are launched within the Regional Programme on Local Democracy in the Western Balkans 3 (ReLOaD3).
Eligible Activities:	The aim of these public calls is to improve the quality of public services provided to citizens by strengthening cooperation between civil society organisations and local authorities. Support will be provided through the public calls to a range of CSO projects in areas such as public health and social protection, rural development, tourism, supporting youth and vulnerable groups, improving gender equality, and environmental protection.  Actions must take place in Serbia.
Eligible Applicants:	Eligible are civil society organizations.
Total Budget:	$100,000

Call Title:	ANRF MAHA Leapfrog Demonstrators for Societal Innovation in India
Programme:	Anusandhan National Research Foundation
Objective:	Applications are now open for the ANRF MAHA Leapfrog Demonstrators for Societal Innovation Program to catalyse bold, integrated and scalable solutions to address the country’s most pressing societal challenges through research and innovation. The program focuses on reimagining agriculture with resilience and sustainability, radical energy efficiency, reimagining transportation and safety, addressing air, water, and industrial pollution, promoting waste-to-wealth initiatives, developing smarter infrastructure, biodiversity preservation and monetization, skilling and jobs, community health, sports science and physical literacy, and economic inclusion through AI-enabled digital literacy and responsive financial products.
Eligible Activities:	The initiative is designed to support projects that go beyond incremental improvements by demonstrating transformative solutions at scale. These Leapfrog Demonstrators validate technical, economic, and social hypotheses under real-world conditions, ensuring that innovations are not confined to laboratory settings but are deployable and impactful across communities and industries. The program also emphasizes the importance of demonstrating real-world usability and adoption across stakeholders such as farmers, communities, public agencies, and industry players. Projects are expected to provide evidence of scalability through field-level implementations and establish economic viability by optimizing cost and performance for sustainable large-scale deployment. Funding support is available under two categories. Large projects can have a total budget ranging from ₹25 crores to over ₹100 crores, with ANRF contributing up to ₹50 crores, while medium projects range from ₹10 crores to ₹25 crores with ANRF support up to ₹12.5 crores. Both categories require a minimum of 50% cost sharing in cash from non-ANRF sources, and projects can span up to 60 months.
Eligible Applicants:	Eligibility criteria specify that each proposal must be led by a Lead Institution headed by a Lead Principal Investigator who holds a regular position in an academic institution, national research laboratory, or a recognized not-for-profit research institution or Section 8 company aligned with the program’s goals. The Lead PI must be an Indian citizen or OCI holder and possess a Ph.D. in relevant disciplines or a professional medical degree. Those nearing superannuation may apply with a Co-PI who has at least five years of service remaining, and certain fellows are eligible to participate as Co-PIs.

Call Title:	Applications for Forest Conservation Fund Grant Opportunity
Programme: Forest Conservation Fund (FCF)
Objective:	The Forest Conservation Fund (FCF) provides financial support to eligible organisations and individuals engaged in the protection, management, and restoration of natural forest areas through community-driven and conservation-focused initiatives. The programme supports protected or conservation-designated forest areas of at least 500 contiguous hectares of natural forest land, with clear boundary demarcation and recognition of conservation status, and prioritises projects that implement forest protection, biodiversity monitoring, ecosystem restoration, native species reintroduction, community engagement, sustainable livelihood development linked to conservation, legal support for indigenous and local tenure rights, and operational management activities including staffing, audits, and project overheads.
Eligible Activities:	The Forest Conservation Fund (FCF) is designed for community-based organisations, NGOs, private companies, research institutions, universities, religious entities, or individuals, provided they are legally registered and operating within the country of the conservation site, while government bodies are not eligible to serve as grantees. Applicants must ensure annual third-party financial audits of conservation spending, maintain transparency in fund allocation, and demonstrate that funds are used exclusively for conservation activities rather than profit generation. Eligible project areas must consist of natural forest ecosystems with limited non-native species presence, must not involve new plantation of non-native species, and should be formally recognised as conservation or social forestry areas with intent for long-term protection. Additionally, the forest must meet a minimum size requirement of 500 contiguous hectares and must have visible demarcation at entry points or boundaries to ensure clear identification and protection of the site. Funding under the FCF may be used for a wide range of conservation activities including the development and implementation of biodiversity and social monitoring systems, participation in broader landscape conservation efforts, payment of land-related fees or permits, staffing and operational support, contracting third-party management services, ecological restoration using native species, and reintroduction of native fauna. The programme also supports initiatives that strengthen conservation outcomes through community-based income generation, both within and outside the project area, as long as these activities align with conservation goals, as well as legal

	assistance for securing community or indigenous land tenure over conservation areas. Applicants are encouraged to design integrated conservation strategies that combine ecological protection with community participation and long-term sustainability, ensuring that conservation areas are effectively managed, monitored, and protected while contributing to broader environmental and social benefits.
Eligible Applicants:	The opportunity is focused on legally registered organisations or eligible individuals residing in the country of the forest area, excluding government agencies as grantees, and requiring third-party financial auditing of conservation-related expenditures, along with strict compliance on fund usage strictly for conservation purposes.
Total Budget:	€Not available
Deadline:	21/06/2026

Call Title:	Asia-Pacific Awards for Cultural Heritage Conservation
Programme:	United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO)
Objective:	The Asia-Pacific Awards for Cultural Heritage Conservation 2026 recognize outstanding efforts in preserving cultural heritage across the Asia-Pacific region through exemplary conservation projects. The program focuses on the conservation of cultural heritage sites, recognition of private sector initiatives and public-private partnerships, preservation of historical and architectural significance, community engagement in heritage conservation, and promotion of cultural landscapes, industrial and agricultural heritage, 20th-century sites, vernacular architecture, and cultural routes.
Eligible Activities:	The initiative highlights the importance of protecting cultural identity through sustainable and well-executed restoration and preservation practices. The Awards place special emphasis this year on encouraging participation from underrepresented subregions, including Central and West Asia and the Pacific. Projects connected to diverse heritage types such as cultural landscapes, technological and industrial sites, agricultural heritage systems, and modern-era cultural assets are strongly encouraged for submission. Eligible projects must have been completed within the last ten years. This includes projects finalised between March 2016 and June 2026 where the original use of the site has been retained, or up to June 2025 in cases where a new use has been introduced. The eligibility criteria ensure that recently completed and relevant conservation efforts are recognised. Examples of eligible conservation projects include houses, commercial and institutional buildings, historic towns and villages, archaeological sites, and cultural landscapes. These categories reflect the broad scope of heritage conservation considered under the Awards framework.

Eligible Applicants:	UNESCO has opened submissions for the 2026 edition of the Awards, inviting nominations for conservation projects that demonstrate excellence in safeguarding historical places while also strengthening community involvement.
Total Budget:	€Not available

Call Title:	Protected or Conserved Area Creation Awards Grant
Programme:	Rainforest Trust
Objective:	The Rainforest Trust offers funding support to enable the creation and expansion of protected or conserved areas that safeguard biodiversity and contribute to climate mitigation. The focus areas of this opportunity include the creation or expansion of protected or conserved areas, protection of globally significant populations of critically endangered and endangered species, conservation of large areas of tropical and subtropical high integrity forests, and safeguarding habitats critical for mitigating global climate change such as peat swamps, mangroves, and páramo ecosystems.
Eligible Activities:	Rainforest Trust’s Protected or Conserved Area Creation Awards are designed to empower non-profit organizations, Indigenous Peoples, and local communities to establish legally recognized conservation areas. These projects must prioritize long-term sustainability and align with the needs and aspirations of both governments and local stakeholders. The funding supports efforts such as land designation, titling, or purchase, as well as other recognized conservation approaches including Other Effective Area-based Conservation Measures. Eligible projects must focus on areas that are currently unprotected and demonstrate clear ecological importance, particularly for endangered species or critical habitats. The initiative also emphasizes the importance of ensuring lasting conservation outcomes through legal protection mechanisms that mitigate threats to biodiversity and carbon storage. Projects are expected to establish or strengthen management systems, including formal management plans and committees, to maintain effective stewardship of the protected areas. Additionally, measures must be implemented to regulate resource use and prevent unsustainable extraction practices. With no fixed maximum grant amount and awards starting at $250,000 and above, each application is assessed individually based on its potential impact and alignment with Rainforest Trust’s conservation priorities.
Eligible Applicants:	Applicants are required to be legally registered non-governmental organizations authorized to operate within the project country. Strong collaboration and documented support from relevant governments and Indigenous or local communities are essential, including adherence to Free Prior and Informed Consent processes.

Total Budget: $250,000 - $500,000
Deadline: 01/07/2026

Call Title: Holohil Grant Program Supporting Conservation Research
Programme: Holihill
Objective:	The Holohil Grant Program provides support to global conservation research by providing transmitters to projects that advance scientific knowledge and protect underrepresented species.
Eligible Activities:	The program focuses on projects that make significant use of Holohil transmitters for data collection, aim to advance scientific knowledge, contribute to conservation, engage or educate the public, and involve underrepresented study species of high research or conservation value. The program offers funding in the form of Holohil transmitters valued at up to CAD $2,500 per project each quarter, along with coverage of shipping costs, while import duties and taxes remain the responsibility of recipients. If a project requires less than the maximum amount, they may allocate transmitters to multiple applicants within the same funding cycle.
Eligible Applicants:	Eligibility is open to conservation professionals and researchers from anywhere in the world whose projects align with the program's criteria, including strong research design, clear conservation intent, and meaningful use of transmitters for data collection. Applications are accepted globally, and support is awarded four times a year.
Total Budget: €10,000
Deadline: 15/07/2026

Call Title:	Funding Opportunity for Sustainable Research Collaboration and Innovation Networks
Programme:	European Commission (EC)
Objective:	The European Commission is inviting grant applications to strengthen cooperation and ensure the long-term impact of Centres of Excellence by promoting joint initiatives and collaborative innovation efforts.
Eligible Activities:	The programme focuses on strengthening long-term collaboration among Centres of Excellence through joint initiatives and clustering, enabling strategic transformation of research and innovation systems, promoting multidisciplinary and transnational cooperation to address European and global challenges, advancing priorities such as responsible AI usage, knowledge valorisation, commercialisation and entrepreneurship, increasing visibility and recognition of Centres of Excellence, improving synergies with national and European programmes, fostering strategic clustering and thematic collaboration, supporting pilot implementation of collaborative clusters, building capacity for knowledge valorisation, enabling networking and matchmaking with industry and policymakers, developing digital platforms for collaboration, organising international conferences, and supporting entrepreneurship and technology transfer activities. This initiative aims to build on previous investments in Centres of Excellence established under Teaming calls, particularly in Widening countries, by enhancing their sustainability and international competitiveness. It seeks to create stronger collaboration frameworks and shared initiatives that maximise the scientific, societal, and economic impact of these centres. The scope of the call includes fostering collaboration among existing and future Centres of Excellence through structured activities such as strategic clustering, pilot implementation of joint initiatives, and capacity building programmes. It also encourages the development of networking opportunities, digital platforms, and international events to facilitate continuous interaction between research institutions, industry, and policymakers.

	The programme provides funding of €7,000,000 to support comprehensive project proposals that bring together a wide range of expertise aligned with the proposed activities. It is designed to ensure that research outputs are translated into practical innovations and that collaboration leads to sustainable growth and impact.
Eligible Applicants:	Eligibility is open to any legal entity regardless of location, including organisations from non-associated third countries and international organisations, provided they meet the conditions set under the Horizon Europe Regulation and other applicable requirements. Entities may include organisations with legal personality or those recognised under relevant legal frameworks that can participate in collaborative research and innovation activities.
