

BIOLOGICAL CONTROL

As living, breathing organisms, biological control agents benefit from a diverse landscape. The additional mix of planting and flowering borders near crops attracts and sustains populations of natural enemies by providing them with the pollen, nectar, and protection they need to survive.

IPM