

BIOLOGICAL CONTROL

Chickens, guineas, geese, and other poultry keep insects, ticks, and weeds under control around a farmstead. They are effective foragers that can help reduce pest populations within confined areas. On the negative side, they produce manure and may feed on desirable plants such as vegetables.

IPM

