

CULTURAL CONTROL

Native plants have fewer problems because they have adapted to the local climate and natural enemies in a given region. The strategic use of native plants can help reduce pest and weed populations and creates diversity in the landscape.

IPM

