Preparing for Law School Finals

We know that preparing for law school final exams is a stressful time, and we hope that the resources in this guide are useful to you for productive studying. From all of us at the George W. Hopper Law Library: Good luck!

Study Guides and Tools?

The library's Law School Academic Success webpage is a great place to start. It provides an overview of resources for help on exam taking, studying, time management, and technology.

Quimbee, an ABA-endorsed study aid, provides access to case briefs, videos, professor-written practice exams with model answers, and over 3,000 practice questions with explanations. The George W. Hopper Law Library provides Quimbee accounts to our UW College of Law students.

The Lexis Digital Library provides virtual access to a large collection of treatises, practice guides, study guides and more in e-book format. Includes legal study aids from the following series: Mastering, Questions & Answers, Skills & Values, and Understanding. Available to George W. Hopper students, faculty, and staff.

The West Academic Study Aids collection includes legal study aids from the following series: Acing, Black Letter Outlines, Concepts and Insights, Exam Pro, Flash Cards, Gilbert Law Summaries, Hornbooks, Law School Legends Audio, Nutshells, Office Hours, Quick Reviews, Short & Happy Guides, Step-By-Step Guides, and Sum and Substance Audio.

The Wolters Kluwer Online Study Aid Library includes legal study aids from the following series: Academic Success, Casenote Legal Briefs, Emanuel CrunchTime, Examples & Explanations, Friedman's Practice Series, Glannon Guides, and Jumpstart.

The George W. Hopper Law Library maintains a current print study aid collection housed behind the circulation desk. Students may check out print study aids for a three-hour period. To find a specific study aid in print, search the Library Catalog for the title or series. Older editions of our print study aids are available within the library treatise room for an extended checkout period. Note that the many of the study aids are available in print and as e-books.

From the Director: Final

Professor Debora Person
As you prepare for finals followed by a well-earned semester break, the library staff would like to wish you all success and safe travels. On a personal note, I'd like to thank you for sending me off in style as I, too, prepare for big changes at the end of this semester with my upcoming retirement. Thank you to the library for putting together such a lovely celebration to honor our student wellness and my own history here at the College of Law. I enjoyed the event immensely, and I am grateful to those of you who were able to celebrate with us and for those of you who sent your well wishes. It is my pleasure to announce that my excellent colleague and friend, Tawnya Plumb, will be taking on the mantle as the new library director of the George Hopper Law Library. We are so lucky to have her expertise and grace to guide the library into the future. Here's to a very bright future to our students, our faculty, and to the library and its inimitable staff.
