

School of Pharmacy

Scholarship Profile

Kelsea Zukauckas
Class of 2020
Cheyenne, WY

Student Bio

Kelsea is from Cheyenne, Wyoming. She originally attended school at George Mason University on a softball scholarship before getting injured. She then returned to Cheyenne to pursue pharmacy and undergraduate research at Laramie County Community College. While at LCCC Kelsea completed research relating to Selenophilic fungi under the direction of Dr. Wangelin and Dr. Roehrs.

Kelsea says "the faculty and staff at the School of Pharmacy have truly opened my eyes to the many opportunities the profession of pharmacy has to offer. When I came into pharmacy school, I was certain that residency was the only path for me, but as I develop as a student, I am seeing that there are many opportunities out there for me."

Kelsea has also appreciated the opportunity to continue working on research projects through the School of Pharmacy and the Physiology Department. She particularly enjoys the time management skills she has learned through her research projects, and the sense of curiosity that comes with engaging in research. Serving in leadership roles with both APhA and ASHP has been another highlight of Kelsea's experience in pharmacy school. She says these experiences "have helped me grow as a person and communicate with a wide spectrum of professionals."

Wyoming Pharmaceutical Association Scholarship

Established in 1915, the mission of the Wyoming Pharmacy Association is to advance and promote the practice and profession of pharmacy. A supporter of the School of Pharmacy since 1971, WPhA's scholarship is awarded to a pharmacy student based on previous academic achievement.
