The Hello!

As we enter the last three months of the year, the Experiential Education Office has been reflecting on the outstanding year our preceptors and students have had, and we trust, will continue to have into the new year. In this issue of the PRN newsletter, we showcase two of our many fantastic preceptors who helped make this past year so amazing. These preceptors were selected as Preceptors of the Year for the 2023-2024 academic year. They were selected out of several nominations submitted by both our P2 and P4 rotation students who wished to acknowledge the preceptors who made a difference in their lives. The two preceptors selected for this prestigious honor for the last academic year were Jade Enevoldsen and Kylee Willoughby.

Jade Enevoldsen:

Jade graduated from the University of Wyoming School of Pharmacy in 2007 and has since spent 16 years working for Walmart Health and Wellness in a retail setting. Growing up in a small town in western Nebraska, he learned the importance of community and helping others.

Jade's career began in Salt Lake City as a staff pharmacist for Walmart, and he took the opportunity to transfer to Laramie to take the position of Pharmacy Manager at Walmart in 2014. He is passionate about providing students with various opportunities, including a growing number of clinical services, in a fast-paced setting while establishing strong connections within the community.

Many of Jade's student nominators commented that he was very interested in their learning and provided appropriate instruction, so they knew their roles early in the rotation. They also praised his ability to allow them to use their critical thinking skills to figure certain things out for themselves.

Kylee Willoughby:

Kylee graduated from the UW School of Pharmacy in 2009 and went on to complete a PGY1 residency at the Denver VA Medical Center. She then became a staff pharmacist at North Colorado Medical Center in December of 2010. In 2014 Kylee accepted the position of Associate Director and Residency Program Director and continues in that role today. Kylee also completed the UW School of Pharmacy's Master of Science in Health Service Administration program in 2021.

Student nominators said Kylee is very passionate about the student's success both during the rotation, as well as after and into the student's future. She encourages and pushes student growth so they will have a strong foundation to work with in all future endeavors.
