Fall 2025 Seminars

August 27th, 10-11 am - Mentor Training & Mentorship

A good mentor is more than just your advisor. This talk focuses on good mentorship (and good menteeship), risks of bad mentorship, and how to ensure that your research relationships are properly set up to succeed

September 10th, 12-1 pm - Data Management

Use it or lose it! This month's seminar helps researchers understand their data, data storage, safety, and ownership, and gives you resources to get your data from the field to the publisher

October 8th, 12-1 pm - Beyond the Rules: Why a Personal Code Matters as a Researcher

A guest presentation by Dr. Chase Thiel, the Co-Founder of UW Center for Principle-Based Leadership and Ethics and Associate Dean of the College of Business, shares how one discovers their own values and ethics

November 12th, 12-1pm - Export Controls

Guest lecturer Carrie Hesco (Director, Research Security and Conflict of Interest) provides guidance on what every University employee needs to know about export controls

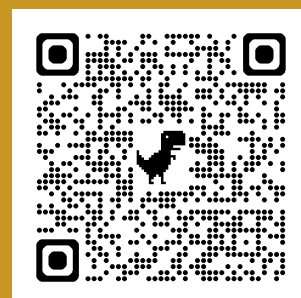

Intended audience: UW undergraduate students, graduate students, postdocs, research staff, and principal investigators
