Cowboy Credit: Outdoor Recreation & Tourism Pathway
2026-2027 University of Wyoming & Sheridan College

Cowboy Credit is a planning tool that helps students identify coursework that may align with a UW academic pathway before transferring to the University of Wyoming.

START YOUR PATH

Planning for Outdoor Recreation at UW?

Start with these commonly transferable courses to build your UW-TAG and stay on track across UW's Outdoor Recreation & Tourism Management (ORTM) degree programs.

Core Foundations

Take these courses before you transfer:

- Introduction to Recreation, Tourism, or Hospitality (if available)
- Microeconomics or Macroeconomics
- Management
- Marketing

These courses reflect the interdisciplinary structure of UW's Outdoor Recreation & Tourism Management program, combining business, environmental, and recreation-focused study.

Quantitative Foundations

Build your math and analytical skills early:

- College Algebra (or higher)
- Statistics

These courses support planning, decision-making, and analysis in recreation and tourism fields. Statistics is a required component of the ORTM degree and is recommended early.

Environmental & Place-Based Knowledge Foundation

Develop an understanding of natural systems and landscapes:

- Environmental Science
- Physical Geography
- Physical Geology
- Natural Resources or Ecology

These appear as selectable environmental foundations in ORTM

ORTM Content Area Foundations

Students interested in CTE education often benefit from early coursework aligned with their intended teaching area, including:

- Business & Hospitality
- Management of Recreation Resources
- Outdoor Recreation Leadership

General Education

Strong communication skills are essential for leadership, planning, and client engagement in outdoor recreation fields.

- English Composition
- Human Culture
- American & Wyoming government

Every student's path is unique. You don't need to complete all of these courses before transferring—this guide helps you start building a strong foundation, and our team will work with you to make the most of your previous coursework, including AP, IB, CLEP, dual enrollment, and transfer credit.
