

UWYO 1101 - TRANSFER FYS

Title: Transitions Through Life

About: This course is a first-year seminar designed for transfer students and fulfills the USP general education FYS requirement.

Semester: Fall 2020

Day/Time: Tuesdays & Thursdays 2:45-4:00pm

Instructor: Blake Johnson, PhD

Section Info: UWYO 1101-08 CRN: 18742

Course Description: Transitions are a certainty in life. From childhood to adolescence, high school to college, dependence to autonomy, school to the world of work, singleness to relationship, career to retirement – all of us experience profound transitions at different life stages. Knowing how to learn from prior experiences and anticipate future changes is essential to defining and pursuing success in adulthood. Through readings, guided discussions, and an individual research project, you will explore how life transitions affect your personal identity development, goal setting, and motivation. As a class, we will also work to understand how current college experiences will affect your future decision making and career success.
