Now, therefore be it resolved by the Board of Trustees of the University of Wyoming that this resolution expressing deep appreciation and gratitude for John McKinley’s service and contributions to the University of Wyoming be unanimously adopted. Thank you, John McKinley, for your exemplary leadership and service.
Unanimously adopted this 9th day of May, 2024, by the University of Wyoming Board of Trustees.
Trustee Dave True seconded the motion. The resolution carried unanimously.

AGENDA ITEM TITLE: DEI Recommendations in response to footnote in the Wyoming Legislature’s FY25-26 budget bill, Seidel
The Board reserved on hour of its agenda to receive public comment on the Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Review Working Group report which can be found in the May 2024 Board Report.

Before the Board engaged in its discussion, Trustee True stated the following: “Mr. Chairman, as many of you know, I'm not a real soft, touchy-feely kind of guy, but I want to draw a contrast. Those who know me know that I live, breathe, and bleed Wyoming—not just the University of Wyoming. Contrasting what we went through two months ago in this room and in this city, and this morning, with what we hear is going on across other college campuses in our country…makes me doubly proud to be a Wyomingite and to be a University of Wyoming Cowboy. Mr. Chairman, I draw that contrast because it's striking to me. We do have differences of opinion, but this demonstrates that the people at the University of Wyoming, cowboys and cowgirls throughout the state, can have good, meaningful discussions and honor one another. So, I just had to comment on that.”

Trustee Kermit Brown provided a brief introduction to the discussion of the university response to the footnote in the Wyoming Legislature’s FY 25-26 budget bill that reads “No funds from this appropriation shall be expended on the office of diversity, equity, and inclusion at the University of Wyoming or on any diversity, equity and inclusion program, activity or function.” Trustee Brown read the following definition of diversity, equity and inclusion (DEI) as stated in the working group report:
Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion efforts are defined as advocating, promoting, or funding a program, activity, or function that:

1. Advantages or disadvantages, or attempts to advantage or disadvantage, an individual or group on the basis of race, color, sex, national origin, gender identity, or sexual orientation, to equalize or increase outcomes, participation or representation as compared to other individuals or groups; or
2. Promotes the position that the action of a group or an individual is inherently, unconsciously, or implicitly biased, privileged or inherently superior or inferior on the basis of color, sex, national origin, gender identity, or sexual orientation.

This excludes any of the following:

- a. Requirements necessary for athletic and accreditation compliance.
- b. Academic freedom, including research, teaching, and learning.
- c. Training students and employees on the non-discrimination requirements of state and federal law.
- d. Requirements necessary to establish or maintain eligibility for or compliance with any State or federal programs or laws, including equal opportunity.
- e. Requirements for access programs for military veterans, Pell Grant recipients, first generation college students, nontraditional students, “2+2” transfer students, low-income students, or individuals with disabilities.
- f. Private scholarships administered by an institution other than UW (not including those matched with state-appropriated dollars).
- g. Student fees to support student-led organizations and their use of faculty sponsors and University facilities.
- h. Constitutionally protected speech or actions.
- i. Expenditure of funds used for de minimus administrative activities not unique to any one program or activity (e.g., utilities, facilities use, etc.).

UW President Ed Seidel reported in response to the March 2024 Board discussion he charged a working group with providing suggestions (not formal recommendations) on how essential diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) programs, activities, and functions could be organized and funded within the university to make them most effective. President Seidel stated the working group consisted of members of faculty senate, staff senate, ASUW, deans, and administrators. Vice President and General Counsel Tara Evans and Vice President for Diversity Equity and Inclusion Zebadiah Hall were appointed cochairman of the working group. President Seidel stated that in the absence of a definition of DEI within the legislature’s budget bill footnote, the working group considered other legislative language and laws from other states to recommend a definition. President Seidel noted the exclusions noted in the definition (a-i) reaffirm and highlight the university’s continued commitment to federal compliance, competitive research and athletic endeavors, student success, academic freedom, freedom of expression, and access to all.

President Seidel stated the importance of diversity of thought, discipline, political view, geography and background, further stating that every dimension of diversity is critical, and should be valued at any university because it enriches community, supports finding solutions to complex problems.
(something a university must strive to do), and fuels innovation. President Seidel stated that within the limits of the university’s core values, including prioritizing merit, this diversity should be supported and celebrated at the University of Wyoming to promote expenditure decisions that are consistent with the university mission, applicable law, and ethical practice. President Seidel stated the university needed to not only follow the letter of the law, but the intent of the legislature. The president discussed the work already in progress to create an Allowable Expense Standard Administrative Policy and Procedure.

The president summarized in detail the contents of the Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Review Working Group report and stated that among the university activities and programs that won’t be changed are those addressing requirements necessary for athletic and academic accreditation compliance; training students and employees on the nondiscrimination requirements of state and federal law; requirements for access programs for military veterans, Pell Grant recipients, first-generation college students, nontraditional students, low-income students or people with disabilities; and student fees to support student-led organizations and their use of faculty sponsors and university facilities. President Seidel stated the university will continue to protect academic freedom and freedom of expression, which are among core principles of the university identified by the working group. President Seidel stated the university is committed to being open and welcoming to all; supporting and treating everyone fairly and respectfully; being politically neutral as an institution; basing hiring and grading exclusively on merit; encouraging inquiry instead of advocacy in the classroom; and considering the needs of all students, faculty and staff.

President Seidel then outlined items the working group suggested the university consider changing or discontinuing such as mandates for search committees to advance candidate pools that include candidates based on protected class. President Seidel stated he felt this issue is less clear and required significant discussion and shared an experience where a hiring committee initially failed to include female candidates. President Seidel emphasized the importance of exhaustive searches to ensure diversity without compromising merit-based hiring. Trustee Dave True raised concerns about potential discrimination, suggesting that rejecting a pool solely for lacking diversity could be problematic. Trustee Brown acknowledged the dilemma, suggesting that the absence of qualified women in the pool hinted at systemic issues. President Seidel clarified that the goal was not to mandate specific demographics but to ensure thorough efforts in recruitment. President Seidel argued against labeling a search as failed solely due to a lack of diversity, advocating for a nuanced approach to hiring evaluations.

The president outlined other items suggested for discontinuance such as the option of direct hiring candidates based on protected class, noting that the working group noted that this might occur occasionally, and it is an area for consideration. The president stated requests for diversity or loyalty statements from candidates has become a controversial practice in higher education, and stated it is something the university should evaluate to determine our own policy. Similar to the previous point, President Seidel stated that requiring search committees to use diversity statements merits discussion about its potential implications. President Seidel stated the practice of using a land acknowledgment statement not approved by the university should be further evaluated for appropriateness. President Seidel stated that requiring an evaluation of an employee's commitment to DEI in the annual performance evaluation is currently part of the university’s evaluation.
template but is not always utilized unless it directly pertains to the job but it should be discussed whether this requirement is necessary or should be modified. Trustee John McKinley asked for clarification regarding the reference to use of land acknowledgment statements.

President Seidel discussed the five options recommended by the working group.

1. Continue to fund the ODEI, its employees, and functions through private support.
2. Continue to fund the ODEI, its employees, and functions through state dollars and/or private support but change the name to accurately reflect the work of the office and legislative intent.
3. Reorganize or consolidate the ODEI, its employees, and functions within another university unit and change the name to accurately reflect the work of the office and legislative intent.
4. Close the ODEI, including termination of its employees, and redirect duties to other university units.
5. Close the ODEI, including termination of its employees, and redirect any federally required duties to other university units.

President Seidel stated that he looked forward to the Board’s discussion of the matter before he made a recommendation, but also noted the university will no longer have funding to support the ODEI as is. President Seidel stated he and his cabinet have had extensive discussions weighing all options, and felt it is possible to distribute many of the duties through reorganization.

There was Board discussion about the unlikely ability to accurately define legislative intent and cautioned against making assumptions related to Governor Mark Gordon’s line-item veto. State Superintendent for Public Instruction Megan Degenfelder expressed appreciation for the committee's work, particularly in examining definitions and understanding the context of public comments. Degenfelder stated the debate on eliminating DEI is not about removing diversity or inclusivity but addressing an extreme interpretation that suggests preferential treatment of one race or gender over another. Degenfelder went on stating that this interpretation is causing widespread anger across the state, as people do not want this at their university; the issue lies with the politicization of DEI. Degenfelder stated that, unlike other universities, the University of Wyoming is uniquely funded by the State Legislature, necessitating responsiveness to elected officials and, therefore, addressing these issues is essential for the university's progress. Trustee Brown stated that the people in the state are angry about “preferential treatment” and in his opinion, the challenge is that while some areas need further examination, preferential treatment is not what this university’s ODEI does. ASUW President Kameron Murfitt drew attention to ASUW's report which was included in the Board’s meeting materials. Trustee Macey Moore expressed concern that elimination of the office will affect the best execution of the services and programs. Trustee Brad Bonner stated he was pleased the university was made to conduct this examination. Trustee Bonner discussed the definition of DEI, and stated the majority of the services and programs the university is proud of do not fit the definition. Trustee Bonner contemplated the benefit of calling the work by a different name, and that doing so would not be intellectually dishonest. Trustee Michelle Sullivan described the benefit of addressing differences by identifying agreed upon values such as building a “community of belonging” and stated the university has the opportunity to do and be something special. Degenfelder stated that how the university prioritizes dollars and cabinet positions sends a message across the state and noted that while there is a vice president for DEI there is not a vice president for the School of Energy Resources. President Seidel discussed Vice President for Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Zebadiah Hall’s “force of personality.” Trustee Jim Mathis inquired what functions have been added to the ODEI since its creation in 2017. In response President Seidel described ways in which the ODEI has acted like a communication hub and provided a visibility to the university’s commitment to certain communities. Hall discussed the functions and breadth of the ODEI which often advised on the appropriate use of preferential treatment on campus and remarked that he “is not an office, he is a human.”

Trustee John McKinley offered reflection on the discussion and recommended that the members of the Board review the working group report carefully, particularly Appendix A as it relates to student success. Trustee McKinley spoke about the benefit of the report and the exercise of identifying and evaluating activities. Trustee Kermit Brown stated the Board would receive input from UW President Ed Seidel, where it affects personnel matters, in Executive Session Friday, May 10, 2024, and that no decision regarding the future of the DEI office would be made on Thursday, May 9, 2024.

AGENDA ITEM TITLE: UW President Update to Board. Seidel

UW President Ed Seidel stated that enrollment at the university is a critical facet of its strategic vision and reported that the enrollment landscape as detailed in the Institutional Analysis Brown & Gold Report paints a picture of growth and progress. President Seidel stated with 10,913 students in Fall 2023, including 8,250 undergraduates and 2,663 graduate students, our retention and graduation rates are on an upward trajectory. President Seidel noted the Fall 2022 to Fall 2023 first-year class retention rate increased to 77%, and the six-year graduation rate improved to 61%. President Seidel went on to state the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) delays nationwide and shifting societal attitudes toward higher education present formidable obstacles, further stating recent data indicating declining perceptions of the value of higher education underscore the urgency of the university’s enrollment strategy. President Seidel stated that with financial support from the Board, efforts to bolster marketing, recruitment, and retention show promise, and a strategic enrollment planning process has equipped the university with a comprehensive roadmap for the future. President Seidel stated that exploring changes to the university’s budget model and strengthening partnerships with Wyoming community colleges offer avenues for sustained growth. President Seidel went on to discuss events like his “Coffee & Conversation” and Staff Recognition Day, and external activities like the “UW In Your Community” foster a culture of involvement. President Seidel discussed the peaceful student protest regarding the war in Gaza and commended the students for engaging in respectful discourse during a recent protest, in contrast with the national scene. President Seidel expressed satisfaction with the progress related to raising strategic philanthropic gifts and the growing momentum in humanities initiatives, particularly within the College of Arts and Sciences. President Seidel recognized the winner of the inaugural staff Presidential Excellence Award Christie Wildcat, and winner of the John P. Ellbogen Lifetime Teaching Award Kent Noble, as well as recipients of the Tobin and Spitaleri award. President Seidel closed his report stating his anticipation of spring commencement ceremonies, with over 1,800 students set to graduate.
AGENDA ITEM TITLE: Research Excellence Presentation

- Wind Energy Resource Center, Johnathan Naughton

Professor Jonathan Naughton presented the Board information related to the Wind Energy Research Center, which he leads. The center, founded in 2008, has been instrumental in advancing wind energy research, benefiting from a $2 million gift from BP. Over the years, the center has conducted significant interdisciplinary research projects, focusing on areas such as wind plant modeling, transmission studies, and turbine design. The work has included collaborations with organizations like the Wyoming Energy Authority and Power Company of Wyoming, as well as government labs such as the National Renewable Energy Laboratory and Sandia National Laboratory. The center has also engaged in large-scale field campaigns, like the recent Rotor Aerodynamics Air Elastics and Wakes campaign, to gather data for turbine design improvement. Naughton stated the center's research encompasses both computational modeling and experimental validation, utilizing high-performance computing resources and physical testing facilities. It’s developed models to simulate wind behavior at various scales, from continental to turbine levels, and has contributed to creating a national wind resource database. Naughton stated the research not only advances wind energy technology but also informs practical applications, such as turbine placement for optimal energy production and hydrogen generation. Naughton discussed student preparation for careers in the wind energy industry and participation in projects like the Collegiate Wind Competition. Naughton emphasized the importance of wind energy as part of a broader electrical system and highlighted the synergy between research, industry partnerships, and economic development efforts. In response to inquiry from Trustee Carol Linton, Naughton discussed materials research for wind turbine blades, and recycling at end of life. In response to inquiry from Trustee Elizabeth Greenwood, Naughton discussed bird migration and other impacts on wildlife. As a follow up, Trustee Greenwood discussed the health impacts on humans who reside near wind farms. In response to inquiry from Trustee Jim Mathis, Naughton spoke to the downstream demand of wind generated electricity. In response to inquiry from Trustee Dave True, Naughton clarified that wind provides 3% of total energy. In response to follow up, Naughton discussed how long it takes to down-power a wind turbine in response to radar indication of protected wildlife, and stated such emergency stops cause substantial wear and tear on turbines.

AGENDA ITEM TITLE: University-wide written process for access to and use of UW equipment in the High Bay Research Facility

Chitnis

UW President Ed Seidel and Vice President for Research and Economic Development Parag Chitnis discussed the collaborative process undertaken to develop a policy and procedure for multi-user instrument use and data acquisition requests at the university. It was stated the process involved meetings with key stakeholders, including College of Engineering Dean Cam Wright, Professor of Petroleum Engineering Mohammad Piri, and School of Energy Resources (SER) Executive Director Holly Krutka, to propose and refine the process. It was also stated that feedback from potential users was solicited and incorporated into successive iterations, leading to the development of a streamlined process now available on the website. Chitnis reported the procedure includes access policies and aims to simplify and expedite the equipment use process, ensuring about 30% of machine time is available for users, further stating the policy covers unique types of electron microscopes available in the High Bay Research Facility, with newer models also accessible in the Science Initiative Building. Chitnis went on to report that a committee has been established to oversee the process and conduct biannual reviews to assess its effectiveness. The committee will analyze data sets to identify adjustments needed to increase machine utilization. In response to inquiry, Chitnis stated that recalibration of equipment for different users may vary in complexity, but some pieces, particularly those for atomic-scale microscopy, can be quickly adapted. Trustee John McKinley stated his disappointment that Piri, Krutka, and Wright were not present for the discussion. With Trustee Kermit Brown’s concurrence, Trustee McKinley suggested an update be provided during the Board’s November 2024 meeting and requested all stakeholders be present.

AGENDA ITEM TITLE: DEI Recommendations in response to footnote in the Wyoming Legislature’s FY25-26 budget bill, Seidel
The Board continued its discussion of the implications and future directives following the recent budget bill, which includes a footnote prohibiting the use of state funds for the Office of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (ODEI) at the University of Wyoming. This legislation, effective July 1, 2024, results in a $1.7 million biennial reduction in the university's state support. UW President Ed Seidel began his remarks by expressing gratitude to the Board, the State Legislature, students, faculty, staff, and the broader university community for its “passion and investment in making the university the best it can be for all who study, work, and visit.” President Seidel stated his recommendations are informed by months of inquiry, discussions, and feedback from numerous stakeholders, including the April 16, 2024, Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Review Working Group report, written comments, public testimonies, and various conversations with his cabinet and university members.

President Seidel recommended closing the ODEI. The responsibilities of this office will be reassigned, and a new position, Vice Provost for Faculty, Staff, and Student Access, Opportunity, and Wellbeing, will be created, and that all current personnel in the Office of DEI will be reassigned to other roles within the university. President Seidel stated that despite the office's closure, the university will continue to uphold essential principles and activities, such as academic and research freedom, compliance with federal laws, and support for various community initiatives. President Seidel stated that many of the principles and activities at the university that have been carried out “for decades,” because they are legally required or essential for community success will continue such as: academic and research freedom; university compliance with federal laws including the Americans with Disabilities Act, Title VI, Title VII, and Title IX; Native American affairs; the Shepard Symposium, and the Latina Youth Conference. President Seidel discussed university hiring and evaluation practices stating the university will no longer require job candidates to submit statements regarding DEI, and employees will not be evaluated on DEI components in their performance evaluations. President Seidel stated these changes reaffirm the university's commitment to merit-based employment practices, including hiring and promotion. President Seidel discussed plans to review additional university practices to ensure they promote merit and do not favor preferential treatment. Areas under review include admissions practices; DEI advisory councils, task forces, and committees; hosting and sponsoring of speakers; co-curricular identity-based services and events; the Inclusivity Pillar Report; recruitment and retention programs; scholarship and assistantship programs; strategic planning and student support services; and various symposia, research centers, and student organization structures.

There was Board discussion of the definition of DEI and the inclusion of specific exclusions in the recommendations. It was recommended that general counsel should revise relevant regulations to align with the new recommendations. Several trustees acknowledged the difficult situation and expressed their commitment to upholding equality and merit-based principles. The Board commended the hard work of those involved in addressing these complex issues and emphasized the importance of continuing to serve students equitably, even without ODEI. Governor Mark Gordon’s Deputy Policy Advisor Lachelle Brant expressed appreciation for the thorough consideration and decisions made regarding the university's programs. President Seidel concluded by highlighting the university's unwavering commitment to student success, especially during the upcoming graduation ceremonies, and encouraged everyone to focus on the university's next chapter.

Comeau stated that the Staff Senate has expanded beyond classified staff to now include administrative and contract staff with several new members confirmed at the most recent meeting. Comeau reported that Staff Senate introduced a resolution regarding the “Case for Change” staff reorganization. Comeau stated that the resolution was introduced to delay the reorganization until staff receive adequate information and feedback. Comeau noted that the resolution did not pass unanimously, with some senators in favor of the reorganization. Comeau emphasized the importance of acknowledging and presenting the views of those staff members in favor of the reorganization. Comeau reported that on May 1, staff were invited to participate in one-on-one feedback sessions with Human Resources from May 13-24. Comeau encouraged staff members to share their opinions in these sessions to ensure their voices are heard. Comeau expressed his thanks to President Seidel for stating his commitment to ensuring no reduction in staff salaries due to the Faculty Senate  – Ray Fertig
Newly elected Faculty Senate Chairman, Professor of Mechanical Engineering Ray Fertig, reported that Faculty Senate unanimously passed Resolution 464, calling for an indefinite pause to the proposed “Case for Change” staff reorganization. Fertig stated that while they are supportive of the goals of the reorganization, including improving staff advancement opportunities and structured raises for better recruitment and retention, the implementation process has raised several concerns. Fertig reported the concerns include questionable quality of data from the Deloitte study; lack of substantial consultation with staff, faculty, and deans during the decision-making process; insufficient clarity on staff categorization criteria; and what has been felt to be dismissive response to stakeholder concerns, undermining shared governance and breeding further distrust. Fertig recommended administration conduct a thorough impact analysis down to the individual departments; develop a phased-in approach with timelines, pilot programs, evaluation metrics, and mechanisms for adjustments based on feedback; and engage in open communication with all stakeholders addressing their concerns. Fertig concluded his report noting the need for budgetary resources to genuinely improve staff compensation and advancement opportunities.

Trustee Brown commented that the unanimous reaction to the reorganization is of concern. In response to Trustee John McKinley’s inquiry regarding the resolutions against the Case for Change, UW President Ed Seidel stated he is committed to hearing concerns. Trustee Dave True inquired about the implementation status to which President Seidel stated the process has slowed and changes will be applied by September 1, 2024.

Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Review Working Group
Report to President Ed Seidel
April 16, 2024

V. Definition of DEI
DEI is a broad umbrella term encompassing a spectrum of ideals, values, and activities some of which are federally mandated, required for accreditation, and/or represent other unobjectionable activities. Through its work, the Working Group has found that in this broad sense DEI is integrated throughout higher education, including at the University of Wyoming. However, the legislative intent of the budget footnote appeared more focused on specific activities grouped with DEI efforts. In the absence of a definition of DEI within the budget footnote, the Working Group directed its attention toward other legislative language and laws from other states to draft a definition responsive to the perceived legislative intent.

Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion efforts are defined as advocating, promoting, or funding a program, activity, or function that:

1. Advantages or disadvantages, or attempts to advantage or disadvantage, an individual or group on the basis of race, color, sex, national origin, gender identity, or sexual orientation, to equalize or increase outcomes, participation or representation as compared to other individuals or groups; or

2. Promotes the position that the action of a group or an individual is inherently, unconsciously, or implicitly biased, privileged or inherently superior or inferior on the basis of color, sex, national origin, gender identity, or sexual orientation.

This excludes any of the following:

a. Requirements necessary for athletic and accreditation compliance.
b. Academic freedom, including research, teaching, and learning.
c. Training students and employees on the non-discrimination requirements of state and federal law.
d. Requirements necessary to establish or maintain eligibility for or compliance with any State or federal programs or laws, including equal opportunity.
e. Requirements for access programs for military veterans, Pell Grant recipients, first generation college students, nontraditional students, “2+2” transfer students, low-income students, or individuals with disabilities.
f. Private scholarships administered by an institution other than UW (not including those matched with state-appropriated dollars).
g. Student fees to support student-led organizations and their use of faculty sponsors and University facilities.
h. Constitutionally-protected speech or actions.
i. Expenditure of funds used for de minimus administrative activities not unique to any one program or activity (e.g., utilities, facilities use, etc.).
