

2021 WYOMING

Specialty Crops

DIRECTORY

UW

Extension

MP-150-21

June 2021

Welcome

A NOTE FROM THE COORDINATOR

On behalf of University of Wyoming Extension, I am pleased to present the 2021 Wyoming Specialty Crop Directory. UW Extension is a community development organization dedicated to helping Wyoming's people and its communities improve the quality of life, and encouraging residents and visitors to buy locally produced foods is an important part of creating a more robust food system and economy.

Our enthusiasm for developing and promoting the food system is shared by our project funders. Grant funding for this effort came from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Marketing Service through funds provided to the Wyoming Department of Agriculture's Specialty Crop Block Grant Program.

With these funds we created this directory to help connect people in Wyoming with edible specialty crops, including fresh vegetables and fruits, culinary herbs and spices, honey, and homemade goods containing specialty crops such as jams, jellies, barbecue and hot sauces, salsas, pickled and fermented vegetables, fruit pies, and wine. We also hope that farmers and others who produce food will use this directory to connect with their peers as they develop their skills and personal connections.

In short, we hope that this directory:

- Helps residents and visitors find and support Wyoming's local food producers.
- Connects food entrepreneurs with like-minded peers.
- Helps educate producers and others about available resources on a local, state, and national level.

Thank you!

The information in this directory was collected by Robert Waggener, who worked tirelessly to support Wyoming's agriculture, specialty crop producers, farmers' markets, CSAs, businesses that sell locally produced foods, and many others, including UW Extension offices, local conservation districts, community and school gardens, educational programs, and agencies that are involved in some way with specialty crops.

Please enjoy this opportunity to support the local food movement.

Central Wyoming College Orchard Restoration Project

Central Wyoming College (CWC) in 2016 was awarded a grant from the Wyoming Department of Agriculture's Specialty Crop Block Grant Program to restore and revitalize the historic orchard at Sinks Canyon Center Field Station (now the CWC Alpine Science Institute). Additional funds were provided by the Popo Agie Conservation District. Funds allowed for the planting of seedling apple, cherry, pear, and plum trees. Additionally, 20 3- to 4-year-old trees, some propagated from ~100-year-old trees from the historic orchard, were planted. There is interest from apple producers in the region to propagate their own trees from the orchard.

Central Wyoming College Orchard Permaculture Project

CWC in 2019 was awarded a grant from the Wyoming Department of Agriculture's Specialty Crop Block Grant program to continue its restoration and revitalization of the historic apple orchard through the implementation of the permaculture practice of creating guilds around newly planted apple, cherry, and plum trees. Each guild is composed of a variety of companion plants with specific functions that mimic natural plant communities, including grass suppressing bulbs, insect- and bird-attracting plants, mulch plants, nutrient accumulators, and nitrogen-fixing plants. Project activities consisted of planting additional apple trees, guild-bed preparation at each tree, and planting guild plants. During spring 2021, a food forest will be planted at the west end of the restored orchard.

Central Wyoming College Wind River Farm Incubator

CWC in 2020 was awarded a grant from the USDA National Institute of Food and Agriculture's Beginning Farmer and Rancher Development Program to develop the CWC Wind River Farm Incubator. Goals of the project are to train aspiring and beginning farmers and ranchers in growing locally produced, nutritious foods by developing financially and environmentally sustainable farm businesses in central Wyoming; and expand employment and business opportunities in agriculture while also providing local communities with affordable, sustainable fruits, vegetables, meats, and other farm-raised products.

Central Wyoming College Produce Processing Facility

CWC in 2020 received a grant from the LOR Foundation to develop a fruit and vegetable processing area at CWC's Alpine Science Institute. The grant also provided funding for a cold-storage facility for produce awaiting transportation to local markets. These facilities are part of CWC's new Wind River Farm Incubator program (see above).

Pushroot Community Garden

PCG facilitates food security and community involvement by overseeing a community garden and by encouraging gardeners to give back to the community by sharing their garden produce, knowledge, and dedication with others. PCG, which has fiscal sponsorship through the Lander Community Foundation, leases a 30,600-square-foot lot from the City of Lander. It has more than 50 raised beds that are rented to local gardeners. There are also several community plots where herbs, asparagus, squash, rhubarb, strawberries, plums, cherries, and apples are grown. The gardens also support a bee hive and several chickens. Fresh produce is sold at local farmers' markets, and is donated to the Lander Care and Share Food Bank and people in need.

William Frederick's Finest Sauerkraut

Homemade organic white and organic red sauerkraut produced under the William Frederick's Finest Sauerkraut label sold at the Lander Valley Farmers Market, Mr. D's Food Center, and Safeway in Lander; Dubois Super Foods in Dubois; Big Hollow Food Co-Op in Laramie; and a number of farmers' markets, stores, and restaurants in Jackson Hole.

Story behind the name: William Frederick's Finest Sauerkraut is named after Groenke's grandfather, William Frederick, who emigrated from Germany to western Michigan in the late 1880s, where he worked as a farmer; Groenke carries on that tradition on his small farm north of Lander, where he grows up to five tons of organic cabbage each year for his homemade sauerkraut
