

Archived Information

Graduate Application Deadlines Extended for Many of UW's Graduate Programs

The coronavirus pandemic has disrupted many peoples' lives, and many are facing uncertain futures. Graduating seniors, including many of UW's own, have been looking forward to job prospects that have now evaporated. Others, whose jobs seemed stable, now find themselves unemployed. UW has an essential role in helping these people find paths forward. Some of these folks are or will be looking towards graduate or professional programs to help them find new opportunities, only to find that most of the admissions deadlines have already passed. Therefore, many of UW's graduate programs have extended their application deadlines to the summer. If you are interested in graduate or professional study, please contact graduate programs to inquire about application deadline extensions. For a complete list of UW's graduate and professional degree programs, please see:

<http://www.uwyo.edu/uwgrad/prospective/academic.html>. (added 4/15/20)